Fire Department who was seriously hurt of five burned by firecracker explosions, all treated at the beach first aid room.

Authorities said the Fellows boy was swinging a slow match he held in his hand and it accidentally ignited the fuse of one of 60 firecrackers he had in a hip pocket

Pedestrian Hurt

Charles Donovan, 34, of 15 Bow street, Exeter, pianist with an orchestra playing at a Salisbury, Mass., restaurant, suffered a broken leg and badly lacerated right hand when he reportedly walked into the path of a car on the Ocean boulevard at Hampton Beach early yesterday morning.

First aid was administered at the scene by Mrs. Ruby Paterson, R. N., of the beach first aid station, who then rushed Donovan to the Exeter hospital with the help of a motorist. Police Chief Jerome F. Harkness exonerated the driver, Vity Kriandis of Worcester, Mass., after investigating.

Beach Items

A party of 50 MIT graduates from Boston, Mass., enjoyed a banquet at the Ashworth Hotel Sunday at 1:30 o'clock.

Word has been received here of the death of Miss Mary Ashworth at Des Moines, Iowa, whose serious illness resulted in the calling of her brother, Col. George Ashworth of Hampton Beach there. Col. Ashworth will return home following the funeral service.

Thursday was the 35th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lorenz of Hampton Beach and although the day was quietly observed by them, due to the recent death of Mrs. Lorenz' mother, Mrs. Lydia S. Brand, the couple received many gifts, cards and letters of congratulations from their friends.

Miss Denise Hilliard of Haverhill, Mass., is again this season assisting at the information booth of the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce.

There were 23 members of the Lowell, Mass., Women's Research club present at the outing held at Hampton Beach Wednesday afternoon.

Fifty employees of the Lawrence, Mass., office of the John Hancock Life Insurance Co. came to Hampton Beach for their annual outing Wednesday afternoon. They enjoyed a shore dinner, after which, sports, including a baseball game, quits and races, were enjoyed on the grounds in the rear of the Casino building.

Surfman Joseph Messier of the Hampton Coast Guard station, who was on leave of absence, resumed his duties on July 4. That day Surfman Allan F. Hanscom of North Hampton went on leave.

Salvation Army Opens Local Drive

The annual Maintenance Appeal for the Salvation Army opened today in Hampton, North Hampton, Hampton Beach and Little Boar's Head. A quota of $500 is being sought for in this district.

Arthur L. Penniman of Hampton is serving as chairman for the fund appeal while Dean B. Merrill of the Hampton Cooperative Bank is treasurer and will receive and deposit all money. The following are also serving on the committee: William Brown, Hampton; Dr. Harold Pierson, Hampton; O. J. Seamon, Hampton; Edward S. Seavey, Jr., Hampton; Mrs. Ray Merriman, North Hampton; Paul Hobbs, North Hampton; Forrest Knowles, North Hampton; Mrs. Henry Perry, Little Boar's Head; Col. George Ashworth, Hampton Beach; and Fred Lorenz, Hampton Beach.

A portion of the money raised in the Hamptons will be left in Hampton to be administered by the local committee while the balance will be used for the general work of the Salvation Army in Portsmouth under the supervision of Captain and Mrs. Clair T. Lowman, local commanding officers.

Sarcastic

"When I die," said Mr. Dobson, "I should like to be cremated."

"That would be just like you—to go away and leave ashes lying about," replied his wife.

The rejected suitor was standing before her, listening to her elaborate explanations of her decision.

"I trust I have made myself quite plain," she said.

He sighed. "It's only fair to give nature the credit for that."

Supreme Court Suspends Recent Water Rate Ruling Established By State P. S. C.

Company To Keep Children's Day Special Rate Accounts

CONCORD, N. H., July 12—Order No. 3766 of the Public Service Commission, establishing new and lower rates for the Hampton Water Works Co., has been suspended by the Supreme Court, pending the company's appeal from the order.

It is specified that, while the old rates will be collected until the case finally is settled, the company must keep special accounts, showing differences between the old rates and the new ones, and must set aside the difference between what is taken under the old rates and what would be received if the new ones actually were in effect.

Money will be deposited with the clerk of the Supreme Court, and will be returned to the company, if the new rates are not upheld, or will be distributed to the company's customers, if they are maintained by the Supreme Court.

Girls Cop Honors In Junior Division

The first of the Amateur Auditions to be held at Hampton Beach took place at the band stand at 7 o'clock with a large audience. Phillip, lifeguard at Hampton Beach, acted as master of ceremonies, with Ted Wright, who is playing at the beach, as pianist. Prizes in the junior division were awarded as follows: first, Constance J. Hager of Fitchburg; second, Peggie Karagian, Manchester; third, Dorothy Raikens, Springfield, Mass. Senior division prize winners were: Fredrick Williams, Boston; second, Fry Loneragan, Lawrence, Mass.; and Paul Lavecy, Albany, N. Y.

Plan Additional New Facilities At State Bathhouse

Plans for further development of the recreational facilities of the state bathhouse area, now that the summer weather has arrived, are being pushed by State Forester John S. Foster.

An amplification system to provide music, world news and announcements to persons on the sand is to be installed this week on the bathhouse. The contract for the construction of new tennis courts has already been let out and plans for the installation of children's playground equipment are being considered.

Facilities for softball and quits are already available and it is expected that other games are to be added this week. A new neon sign announcing the bathhouse is to be installed at the mile wooden bridge over the Hampton river.

"GASLESS" CAR HITS BEACH PEDESTRIAN

An automobile supposedly without gas and manipulated by a licensee operator chased a pedestrian up onto the sidewalk Wednesday afternoon and ran over him.

William Egan, 42, of 143 Doyle street, Providence, was taken to the Exeter hospital with several broken ribs after he had been run over by the car driven by Miss Virginia Mahan, 167 Pleasant street, Worcester. She had been given her first lesson in driving by David Cahill, 211A Farnahan street, Lawrence, with a borrowed car and the gas supply apparently became exhausted. Cahill pushed the machine into a parking space and left to secure some gas. After he had gone Miss Mahan attempted to start the engine and lost control of the auto, jamming it between a popcorn stand and a hydrant with the pedestrian underneath. The accident is being investigated by Chief Jerome F. Harkness and State Police.

Stress Need For Seawall Repairs

The immediate need of a new seawall along the center of Hampton Beach was stressed Tuesday night at a joint meeting of the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Beach Property Owners Protective association in the community hall.

The fear was expressed that erosion would permanently damage the beach unless the wall, which was washed out in the storm last April, is replaced. At that time a large section of sidewalk and parking area was washed away and the police station and comfort station were threatened.

A membership drive was approved by the group.

Beach Items

The two-day convention of the state Board of Health will be held next Monday and Tuesday at the Hotel Ashworth.

Plans are also underway for the entertainment of several hundred orphans from Manchester at the state bathhouse reservation.

Ideal Weather Brings Near Record Week-end Crowd With Many Enjoyable Outings

Estimate 100,000 Persons At Beach Sunday Afternoon

Sunday saw one of the largest crowds at Hampton Beach in its history. It was estimated there were more than 100,000 visitors here for the day to enjoy the various attractions and band concerts by the Hampton Beach band, under the direction of Maj. Everett A. Moses, both afternoon and evening. The crowd exceeded that of July 4th, when it was roughly estimated there were 75,000 here.

There were many family parties arriving constantly throughout the day and the beach was almost entirely covered by bathers.

Many minor cases of cuts and bruises were treated at the first aid room by Mrs. Ruby Patterson, R. N., and her assistant, Mrs. Sarah Coffin, Saturday and Sunday.

The most seriously hurt was Frank Allen, 20, of 219 Prospect Street, Lawrence, Mass., who while engaged in chopping up an old refrigerator at his summer home near Great Boar's Head, severely cut his right index finger, fracturing the bone, and cutting some of the tendons, when his axe rebounded. He was taken to the comfort station about 2:30 o'clock Sunday where he was given first aid by Mrs. Patterson, with Dr. C. Brickett Bailey of Hampton summoned and after treating him, the injured man was ordered to be sent to the Lawrence General hospital. The finger was cut near the first joint.

Several cases were also treated at the first aid room at the state bathhouse over the week-end for cuts and bruises.

About 50 members of St. George Greek Orthodox Church parish of Manchester were present at their annual outing held at the state bathhouse Sunday morning with beach sports and bathing enjoyed on the grounds, where lunch was eaten before their return later on in the early afternoon.

Many Outings Held At Beach Recently

The women proved to be more proficient spellers than the men at the spelling bee held as part of the day's festivities for 84 employees of the United Life and Accident Insurance company of Concord at the Hotel Ashworth in observance of the company's 26th anniversary.

The winning team was composed of Catherine Simpson, Marie McDonald, Jean Kellogg, Mable Shapleigh and Bertha Merrill. On the losing team were Howard Ring, Dean Thomas, Edgar Rines, George Clark and Harry Barrett.

President Speaks
At the banquet, Warren E. Cutting, chairman of the outing committee, was master of ceremonies. Remarks were made by John G. Hanna, president of the company, and an entertainment was presented by Walter Richardson of Dover.

Transportation was in charge of Aldo Madisen, George Clark and Mable Shapleigh. Program arrangements were made by Miss Simpson, Margaret Gavaghan and Warren Cutting. On the souvenir committee were John Cassidy, Dean Thomas and Helen Young, while the attendance committee was com-

Move To Organize Men's Softball League Underway

During the week of July 7 there will be organized a Park League program for men. Undoubtedly you have heard rumors of a softball league for men. Next week the committee, led by Mr. Edward Seavey, will contact several potential captains for the purpose of establishing a softball league. It is hoped that the games can get underway by July 15 and that there will be six or eight teams in the league.

Everyone over the age of baseball is urged to enter his name on the rolls of one of the prospective teams.

Many social events and outings have been held at Hampton Beach during the past week.

On Monday afternoon the 10th birthday party of Jack Wallis, Dover, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wallis, was held at the Hotel Ashworth just previous to his departure for Camp Belknap at Long Beach for his fourth season there. Among the guests were Miss Mildred Gillis of Exeter, Miss Rose Day of Rochester, Mrs. Irene Seawards, Mrs. Coral Parker, Mrs. Wiggins and Priscilla Fall, all of Dover.

Several members of the United Club of Durham, headed by Mr. Fred Knight, chairman of the committee of arrangements, have arrived for a week's outing at Hampton Beach. This makes their 14th annual outing.

J. P. WINGATE
EXETER ROAD HAMPTON

By William D. Cram

The return of a birthday anniversary, this time the 78th, to Phineas Frank Beckman of the Causeway, Seabrook, N. H., recalls his connection with Hampton Beach in a day when life seemingly was less hurried and simpler pleasures could be enjoyed. Though the beauties of Hampton Beach had been enjoyed even by the Indians its popularity had increased and lessened at periods even as its sands had been overrun and deserted by the unstable tides.

It was in the '70's that Mr. Beckman's father, David, decided that it would be a profitable venture to conduct a rooming house at the beach, and with the help of Phineas, then a young boy, and others built the frame of the structure he planned to have there and with the aid of oxen hauled it to the nearby landing where it was placed on the gundelows used for excursion parties but built more particularly to transport the salt hay from the marshes and then towed down the canal, through Hampton harbor, out the mouth of the river into the ocean and along the front until a few hundred yards nearer Boar's Head than the Cutler Sea

Roller skating too had its tides, and other things attracted the public eye. In Feb. of 1898 the battleship Maine had been blown up, war had been declared with Spain later, and the new street railway line of Wallace Lovell and his associates had been extended down from Exeter to about opposite the present Ashworth Hotel at the beach. Regular schedule service started on July 4, 1898, and on that afternoon also the Beckman skating rink, now with a stage and seating facilities operating under the management of Mora, a well known actress of the day, opened for its premiere presentation of "The Blowing Up of the Main," not a moving picture as of today, but a series of pictures with the dissolving apparatus of the stereopticon, one picture dissolved into another with a very satisfying effect.

The cars of the new line brought their crowds to the beach and the still dependable horse brought his load until thousands were enjoying the sands. The weather was hot, but some four hundred paid their admissions and were watching the story of the tragic end of the splendid battleship and the rush of other warships to avenge the act, when Mr. Beckman's attention was called to the ominous darkening of the sky, the rushing peculiar looking clouds, the sounds of approaching thunder, and despite the protests of nearby auditors, he closed the windows of the place. This was hardly done when the storm broke. The terrific, twisting wind tore at the further end of the building, lifting the entire roof and sides and save at one corner carrying it clear, thus saving the lives of almost all the occupants. But the dragging corner caught a few which included Mora and Jim Wingate, an Exeter News-Letter reporter, and buried them in the twisted pile of boards. Mora died from her injuries but Wingate survived. In the front there was a great rush for the open. Mr. Beckman and two others who were together hastened for the front door, the collapsing but moving structure crushed every bone in the body of the man on his right who also turned in that direction; Mr. Beckman somehow was passed through a window opening as the separating parts of the building passed and was blown in a rolling mass some hundred or more feet towards the sea, while the man on his left also turning in that direction was caught in a flying mass but not severely injured.

The story of that cyclone which destroyed twenty-seven buildings, blew down nearly every chimney on the beach, ripped off sections of houses leaving the other parts standing unscathed, capsized a boat off Boar's Head and brought death to some of its party including Captain Nudd, and otherwise performed many strange freaks is one of the epics of the beach. It brought sightseers beyond the ability of surviving places of eating to provide for, but it only intensified the progress.

The Hampton Beach Casino was planned for construction and the street railway line was to be continued to that point and seeing that the active center of the beach was moving southward, Mr. Beckman decided not to rebuild. He continued to operate the Beckman House and the stables, but not for long.

On the morning of Sunday, April 22, 1900, very early, fire broke out in the House where Cap. and Mrs. Dow were caretakers until the season should open, and dwellers on the beach being few while firefighting apparatus was entirely absent, John G. Cutler, proprietor of the Sea View House at the south, sent a request for help to the central telephone station at Exeter. At 2:15, assistant engineer Flanigan of the Exeter fire department was notified as was Sup't. McReel of the street railway. The latter caused an alarm to be sounded from the railway power house at Hampton and sent a carload of employees to the beach while two cars were sent to Exeter where Flanigan had already sounded an alarm for a fire out-of-town. But before aid could be sent from Exeter, the fire had done its work and word was sent that the help would not be needed. However the some twenty or more firemen who had responded were told they would be given transportation if they wished to view what had happened and with others were taken down and back, forty minutes being the running time each way of that trip. The Beckman House and stables were burned to the ground and nothing saved, even caretaker Dow and his wife barely escaping with their lives.

Later that summer, the new Ocean House opened up beside the Casino, other hotels started to arise in the new center and with little prospects of further popularity of the section for some years, Mr. Beckman decided not to rebuild, later selling the property. On the southern part of his former land are now several cottages and the Kenbury, property of two Lawrence ladies, approximately marks the northern end of the once popular Beckman House bounds.

"Bedtime Story" At Farragut

Hollywood continues to dominate the entertainment being offered at the Farragut Playhouse in Rye Beach, N. H. Each evening through Saturday, July 13, the Players will present Alison Skipworth, outstanding picture star who made history last Tuesday by being the first major movie star ever to appear in a New Hampshire summer theatre, in Edgar Wallace's mystery-thriller, "Criminal at Large."

Then starting Tuesday, July 16, the Players will continue to make entertainment history when they present Sharon Lynne, Hollywood leading lady who scored such a hit in "Brief Moment," in an hilarious new farce by Horace Jackson and Grant Garrett, titled "Bedtime Story." The story connected with this play is one of those unbelievable occurrences that could only happen in Hollywood. Its authors wrote it primarily for the legitimate stage, not even thinking of movie possibilities. However, the ink was hardly dry on the paper when Columbia Pictures came along and snatched it up for Cary Grant and Irene Dunne at a rumored price of $20,000. This seemed to end its possibilities for the legitimate stage. But this was reckoning without Miss Lynne. Horace Jackson had had her in mind when he wrote the part of Annabelle in "Bedtime Story," and she was determined to play it before Miss Dunne.

When she found she was to be leading lady with the Farragut Players this summer, she immediately wired Mr. Jackson for permission to do the play. Because of their friendship he granted her request, and thus it is that the Farragut Players have the unique privilege of being able to present the only legitimate stage production anywhere of a play that has already been sold to pictures for two of Hollywood's top ranking stars, a play that combines the comedy of Noel Coward with the mad gaiety of "My Favorite Wife" and "Too Many Husbands," a play which the Farragut Players feel is undoubtedly the funniest they have ever presented.

Supporting Miss Lynne will be Lauren Gilbert in the role to be played by Cary Grant, and Walter Coy, Jean Guild, Edward Harvey and Art Smith in other featured roles.

"My Son, My Son" At The Olympia

Rarely is a photoplay so meticulously produced, so masterfully directed and so wisely cast as is "My Son, My Son," which is scheduled as one of the feature attractions on the bill opening Sunday at the Olympia Theatre in Portsmouth. Those who have read Howard Spring's best-seller from which "My Son, My Son" was adapted will find that the motion picture version fulfills the novel's extravagant entertainment promises. Those who have not read the book will find "My Son, My Son" as intensely dramatic and an emotionally powerful film play.

As co-attraction with "My Son, My Son," the Olympia will offer the local premier of the hilarious comedy, "The Captain is a Lady," with Charles Coburn, Billie Burke, Helen Broderick, Beulah Bondi and others sharing in the fun.

Andy Hardy At The Colonial

The man-to-man talks between Judge Hardy and Andy Hardy in the popular Hardy Family series have become famous, but the first one to be "illustrated" occurs in "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante," coming Sunday at the Colonial in Portsmouth.

This one is on the subject of real Americanism and takes place against the background of New York University's noted Hall of Fame. Lewis Stone as Judge Hardy illustrates each point he puts over to Mickey Rooney by showing him the statue of some great American who lost typifies that particular American quality.

His initiation into show business occurred in 1900 when he neglected his high school classes to write a vaudeville sketch and then tried to sell it to a Broadway manager. He wound up by selling the sketch and his services as an actor to play in it. He was on the stage until 1919 and then came to Hollywood where his record of continuous screen appearances is one of the longest established by any film favorite.

Not For Long
Daughter: Marry that rich old humbug! Why I'd die first.
Mother: Nonsense, my dear, he's not so strong as he looks.

Ginger Rogers At The Ioka

Weaving a dramatic romance about a girl from the wrong side of the tracks and her Prince Charming who runs a hamburger stand, "Primrose Path" brings Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea to the Ioka Theatre Sunday and Monday in their first co-starring vehicle in six years.

The pair fall in love almost on first sight and Ginger marries him, hoping he will never find out what her family is like. But inevitably he does find out, and in disgust tells Ginger he never wants to see her again.

"La Conga Nights," starring Hugh Herbert and Constance Moore, is the co-feature.

Peter Lorre At The Arcadia

When he smiled . . . men begged for life! When he loved . . . women prayed for death. The killer king of a fiend's paradise of torture whose cruelty was so bestial his eyes could not bear to look upon the tortures his mind devised! The death cries of his victims were music to his ears . . . as he feasted his eyes on a woman's terror!

Peter Lorre comes to the Arcadia Theatre on Sunday in his most terrifying characterization in Columbia's "Island of Doomed Men." Rochelle Hudson, Robert Wilcox and George E. Stone play important parts in the drama of a half-demented mine owner who enslaves paroled prisoners on his out-of-the-way island and rules his little empire with a merciless hand. Charles Barton directed the film and the top-notch supporting cast includes Don Beddoe, Charles Middleton and Stanley Brown.

Local And State Police Continue Jewel Theft Probe

Local and state police today are continuing a widespread search for a person who Saturday afternoon entered the residence of John A. Janvrin, prominent business man, on the Winnacumet Road, and escaped with jewelry and other valuables valued close to $2,000 belonging to his daughter, Mrs. Katherine Dickerman.

Police Chief Jerome Harkness said that the robbery occurred between 1 and 2:30 o'clock and that entrance was obtained through a rear door in the garage which had been left unlocked. The jewelry, he added, was taken from a second floor room.

Chief Harkness asked for state police help in the investigation and Maj. Ralph W. Caswell, deputy superintendent, Lieut. G. Cleveland Percy and Carroll Durgee, fingerprint expert, came here Monday to take part in the probe.

The stolen articles were listed as one diamond-set bar pin valued at $1,250, an onyx ring set with a $300 diamond, a gold cross and chain valued at $25, and two banks containing $25.98. Overlooked by the intruders was a sum of money and a gold watch.

Hampton Park League Enters Its Second Round Red Gulls - North Beach Win

Rye Enters Team In "B" League Competition

There will be a new team on the field today as Rye meets the Bees in the first game for the former. Rye will take over the Hampton Falls schedule as the team there is not as yet ready to play. As soon as Hampton Falls is ready a set of dates will be made and they will become the fifth team in the Junior group.

Games this week include:
Tonight—Red Gulls vs. Red Sox.
Saturday—Forest Rangers vs. Red Sox, 9:30.
Saturday—North Hampton vs. Red Gulls at 11.
Monday—Pirates vs. Bees, 9:30.
Monday—North Beach vs. Rye, at 6:15.
Tuesday—North Beach vs. Bees, 9:30.
Wednesday—Rangers vs. North Hampton, 6:15.

Red Gulls Nick North Hampton

The North Hampton Wildcats, despite their size, held the Red Gull aggregation to thirteen runs while out-hitting the Beach team 7-6.

The Red Gulls piled up a good margin of runs in the first few innings but Manager John Seavey's Wildcats kept picking away until they had scored eight times.

The summary—Red Gulls, 13 runs, 6 hits, 3 errors; Wildcats 8 runs, 7 hits and 2 errors.

NORTH BEACH vs. PIRATES
North Beach banged out four hits in the seventh inning last Saturday to defeat the fighting Pirates 12-11. Both teams showed vast improvement and really looked more than ever like a ball team.

The summary—Pirates, 11 runs, 3 hits, four errors; North Beach 12 runs, 6 hits and 3 errors.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

Much progress is being made in the girls' softball and while it is not definite yet there appears to be a possibility of a four-team loop. Every girl nine years or over is invited to become a member of some team. If you have not already been assigned and do want to play softball, telephone any of the Park League Committee, or any of the young ladies who have charge of the girls' activities. It is hoped that all the girls will show a decided interest in the program so another year a better opportunity can be offered to you.

Next meeting, Saturday morning at 10. Place—Tuck Field. Every girl make it her business to attend.

PARENTS, ATTENTION!

The Park League is still short a few boys for various teams. Have you a son 9-15 who would like to play ball? If so call any of the following: If you live at Hampton Beach (or are stopping for the summer) call Mr. Tucker, Hampton 100 or see him at the Chamber of Commerce Building. If you live in North Hampton call John Seavey. If it is Hampton or Hampton Falls call or see Rev. Calvin Warburton, Hampton 349-3 and if you live at North Beach or its vicinity call or see Mr. Wilder Pierce, Hampton 300. Or those who would care to play drop a card to I. W. Campbell, Park League Secretary and he will see you personally.

Meeting Of Men's Soft Ball League Called For Friday

Four P. M. on Friday has been set as the date of the first meeting of the Park League Softball for men. Any man who believes he can find fifteen gentlemen under 150 years of age is invited to confer with the committee at the Hampton Publishing Company.

Among the possible captains (managers) there appears the well known names of local citizens such as Mack Hamilton, Jack Harrison, Bill Berry, Charles Palmer and Bob Brown—all former ball players and every one a likely man to be able to pick from Hampton fifteen men to play that ever-growing, popular and entertaining game—softball.

According to unconfirmed reports Exeter challenges Hampton's best to a game of softball. Now Hampton has never refused to accept these so-called challenges in the past and they will not pass up this chance to tame the Exeter Lion.

Let's go, Hampton—lots and lots of faces tomorrow, Friday at the meeting.

If you are at the beach for the season call or see Mr. Tucker for complete information.

Musicians From 4 States Selected For Youth Orchestra

New Hampshire Provides Seventy-four Of Hundred

DURHAM, N. H., July 11—More than one hundred young musicians from 38 towns in four states have been selected to play in the Youth Orchestra to be featured at the New Hampshire Seacoast Music Festival, according to an announcement made today by Professor Omar Bergethon of the University of New Hampshire, musical director of the festival. The youth orchestra, an innovation in this year's festival program, will be presented in two concerts, July 27 and 28, on the Opera Field of the Arthur L. Hobson estate at Little Bear's Head, New Hampshire. New Hampshire, with 74, leads in the number of players chosen for the orchestra; Massachusetts is second with 19; and Maine and Connecticut each have six. These young musicians were selected by auditions boards set up throughout the state in Berlin, Littleton, Hanover, Plymouth, New London, Concord, Portsmouth, Manchester, Keene, and Durham. A well-balanced orchestra of symphonic proportions, there are 23 first violins, 22 second violins, 8 violas, 8 cellos, 4 bass violas, 4 flutes, 4 oboes, 1 English horn, 4 clarinets, 1 bass clarinet, 2 bassoons, 5 French horns, 6 trumpets, 6 trombones, 3 tubas and 4 percussion instruments. Through the cooperation of the University of New Hampshire the orchestra will be assembled at Durham on Monday, July 22 and rehearsed for five days prior to the festival. The young people will be housed in university dormitories and will take their meals in the university dining rooms. They will have access to all the campus facilities, such as the swimming pool, tennis courts, library and music listening rooms. They will be carefully chaperoned and a resident physician will be available. All expenses for board and room, music and transportation between the university campus and Little Bear's Head will be paid by the New Hampshire Seacoast Music Festival Association, Inc. The only expense to the members of the orchestra will be a small enrollment fee and transportation from and to their homes. This is a unique opportunity for the music-loving youth of New Hampshire which, it is hoped, will become an annual feature of the festival.

Boy Scouts Enjoying Five Day Camporee Program — Big Parade This Afternoon

Arrive By Boxcar, Boat, Bicycle

By boat, locomotive and boxcar, automobile and bicycle, Boy Scouts of the Daniel Webster council poured into the state bathhouse reservation Wednesday afternoon for the opening of their five-day Camp Ashworth camporee. The most spectacular arrival was that of Troop 10 from Newmarket in the boxcar drawn by the locomotive "Miss Lockingham," of the county 40 and 41.

After unloading the large circus tent needed for the sleeping quarters for the large troop, as well as the cook and storage tents, the legionnaires returned with the locomotive with the promise that they will come back for participation in the scout parade this afternoon. Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor directed the setting up of the camp.

The Dover Sea Scouts arrived in their own boat and moored in the Hampton river just off the encampment. The Sea Scout ship Ranger from Portsmouth also came down under its own power and was moored within the harbor, under the direction of Oscar Eaton.

Hardly had the tents been pitched and the stone fireplaces put in operation when the members of the southeastern District Press club used themselves with the first edition of the Camp Ashworth Journal, which is to come off the typewriters at 10 every morning of the encampment. John Sullivan is the editor of the daily, which is a new venture for the beach camporee. The staff also includes Robert Donagle, Allan Stirling, Charles Harmon and Rene Carmel, all of Portsmouth.

Roland Hinkley of Portsmouth, who again is camp chief reports that there are already 28 troops registered at the encampment. This is six more than were recorded during the entire camporee a year ago. The earliest arrivals were the Scouts of Troop 176 from Dover, led by Bernard Paul. They pitched their tents the day before the encampment opened and were well settled before the others arrived. Troop 163, Portsmouth, under scoutmaster Whittemore and Troop 204, Lancaster, headed by Scoutmaster Bixby, were the last to arrive Wednesday night.

Four Manchester troops were among those to set up their tents during the afternoon. Emile Bourneval was in charge of the activities of Troop 112, while the scouts of Troop 106 were directed by Louis Schradler and those of Troop 114 by Palleidus Korovilas. Troop 92 boys pitched their tents with the others. The Madison scouts, headed by Thomas Jones, and Troop 190, from Milton Mills, with W. Woodbury in charge, are newcomers to the encampment. Others registered at the camp include Troop 61 of Franklin, under Arthur Leclair; Troop 173, Dover, under Thomas Jones; Troop 183, Portsmouth; Troop 184, Rochester, under William Fowler; Troop 256, Nashua, under Thomas Ackerman; Troop 77, Contoocook; Troop 22, Amherst, under Lawrence Glover; Troop 177, Hampton; Troop 158, Portsmouth, under Robert Murphy; Troop 99, Goffstown, under Milton Whipple; Troop 1, Fremont, under Richard Colby; Troop 164, Portsmouth, under Robert Hayes; Sea Scout ship 6 from Nashua, under Ray Stiesick; Troop 98, Derry; Troop 185, Stratham, under Rev. Marshall Stevenson and Troop 194 from Portsmouth, under Lawrence Hamilton.

Coast Guard Will Celebrate Aug. 4

This section of New Hampshire will observe the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Coast Guard, with a variety of activities, starting Sunday, August 4. It was announced today.

Coast Guard stations will be thrown open to the public and special displays will be arranged. The station at Hampton Beach will give a special breeches buoy drill.

The New Hampshire Seacoast Regional Development association will sponsor a special cachet to be used at the Portsmouth postoffice during the week of August 4. The Portsmouth unit, League of Coast Guard Women, will discuss plans for its participation at the next meeting of the members Tuesday evening.

Singing School To Be Held At Beach

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H., July 18—Everyone has been invited by the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce to attend singing school on next Sunday night and every Sunday night, until the close of the season, at the bandstand at 10:30 o'clock. Lessons will be free.

The singing master will be "Bob" Poole, popular maestro of the dance band at the Casino Ballroom. "Bob" will be assisted by Danny Reardon, his pianist, and a bevy of beautiful Hampton Beach girls who have enlisted for the duration of the singing school to hold the great cards, which contain words to the songs which "Bob" will teach on Sunday evenings.

All types of songs are contained in the curriculum for 1940 which has been laid down by the "professor of the beach singing school." There are the old-fashioned numbers, such as were sung by the gay blades who made up the "barbershop quartettes" of the '90's, and the more modern, snappy numbers, tunes that are being played by dance bands in up-to-the-minute ballrooms and night spots all over the country.

So, no matter what your tastes are in so far as songs are concerned, you will be happy and satisfied if you attend one of the Sunday evening "Singing Schools" under "Bob" Poole's direction which will be held at the Hampton Beach bandstand every Sunday night at 10:30 o'clock.

425 Orphans Have Outing At Beach

Armed with sandpails and bathing suits, approximately 425 orphans from the parishes of St. Patrick's, St. Augustine's and St. Peter's churches of Manchester arrived early Tuesday morning at the State Recreational area at Hampton Beach for a day's outing.

Daniel B. O'Connor, school committee member, was in charge of the group. This day at the beach was made possible for the children through proceeds derived from a baseball game.

Patriotism And Fairy Tales Theme Of Colorful Event — St. Rita's Cadets Big Feature

Patriotism vied with fairy tale characters in furnishing the theme for the annual Children's Day parade of colorful floats, decorated doll carriages, bicycles and marching youngsters, witnessed yesterday afternoon by more than 50,000 spectators.

A stern reminder of war was seen in the "national defense" carriage made in the form of an airplane, with a doll garbed as a goggled aviator and its mistress, Rieca Pillon of Newmarket, as Uncle Sam, Clase behind was tiny Priscilla Lois Clough of Hampton as a Red Cross nurse wheeling in her carriage a miniature nurse equipped for first aid.

In the role of the Goddess of Liberty Miss Betty Tobey, Hampton's tercentenary queen, presided over the patriotic float of the town of Hampton with Richard Dearborn as Uncle Sam. Americanism was further stressed in the massed flags of the Boy Scouts headed by Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor of Newmarket in naval uniform.

The acrobatic drum majors of the 183-piece St. Rita's Junior Cadet band of Lowell, Mass., in their scarlet and white uniforms, were the most spectacular feature of the procession. The youngest of these was seven-year-old Joan Foley, who has been performing since she was three years of age. The other drum majors, who presented an exhibition, were Norma and Marilyn Splaine, Teresa St. Onge, Della Bello, Ann Dean and Donna Marie Smith. The colonel drum major was Anne Hallaren, with Florette Villandry as sergeant. The band instrumentation included three glockenspiels played by girls.

Following the parade the prize winning band gave a concert and executed intricate maneuvers before the reviewing stand on which were seated Cong. Arthur B. Jenks, Dr. A. A. Blondin of Manchester, president of the Daniel Webster council, B. S. A. Chief Highway Engineer Daniel H. Dickinson of Concord, William T. Call, chairman of the Manchester Boy Scout Commission; Russell C. Tobey, assistant in the state Department of Forestry and Recreation; Maj. Charles E. Greenman and other guests of Col. George Ashworth, who was honored as the "daddy" of Children's Day.

Three Men in a Tub The most amusing float in the procession was the "rub a dub dub, three men in a tub" outfit of the Hampton Monday club. Squeezed into the tiny tub afloat on the briny deep were Calvin Perkins, son of Judge John W. Perkins; Donald Munsey, grandson of Selectman Harry D. Munsey, and William O'Grady of Franklin, topped with gray sea horses and flanked with fish nets. The float was created by Miss Adeline Marston, Mrs. Ruth Perkins, Hilda Perkins, Mrs. Helen Hayden and Mrs. Ethel Munsey.

Noted Flyer On A Surprise Visit

Al Bennett, nationally famous flyer who taught a whole town to fly, surprised residents of Little Boar's Head Wednesday morning when he set his cub plane neatly down on the broad green lawn of the Foster estate there.

Bennett flew into Portsmouth Airport Tuesday night to visit J. H. Foster, Jr., at Little Boar's Head, Foster, who met him at the field, was accompanied by Edward Hopley of Lafayette road, Portsmouth, and flying up from Hightstown, N. J., with Bennett was Dr. Richard T. Buckley of the Peddie School, prominent in the sporting world because of its head coach Larry Kelly.

While visiting Foster for the next two days, Bennett will confer with Mr. Foster's uncle, Edwin H. Armstrong, noted radio engineer whose discovery of frequency modulated radio is revolutionizing the industry and expected to have an important effect in aviation circles.

Bennett, whose activities won the name of "Flightstown" or Hightstown, won national attention when his plan now before Congress for training 100,000 flyers at an average cost of $100 each, or as he puts it, for a total cost of about one-sixth of one battleship.

Bennett's plan is not theory. It is based on what he has actually accomplished since he returned to his native Hightstown after winning his wings in the United States Air Corps at Brooks Field, Texas, in 1930.

Al had 24 years and an idea behind him. What he lacked in cash he made up in enthusiasm. It was only a short time before a group of youngsters chipped in with him and bought a second-hand plane.

From then on, if anyone in Hightstown hadn't had a flight it wasn't because Al hadn't asked them to take a hop.

Bennett's contribution to aviation is based on an unswerving belief that anyone in reasonably good mental and physical health can

Beach Items

On Wednesday employees of the Concord Mutual Life Insurance Company enjoyed a day's outing at the beach, with a buffet luncheon at noon in the Hotel Ashworth and a banquet there at night. On Tuesday the women's auxiliary of the Union Mission at Haverhill, Mass., held an all-day outing at the beach.

Lewis Stone of Manchester, secretary of the New Hampshire Firemen's association, was at the beach to confer with Fire Chief George Lamott in regard to the annual outing of that organization.

The annual Shrine Marfa of the Bektash temple of New Hampshire will be held at the beach August 3, with Dr. F. Lawrence Bullfinch of Manchester, the chief potentate, in charge of the arrangements for the parade and vaudeville show.

Two New Hampshire church groups had outings at the beach Sunday.

There were 50 members of St. George's Greek Orthodox parish of Manchester who enjoyed softball, quoits and running contests at the state bathhouse reservation. Members of St. Casimir's Catholic church of Nashua journeyed to Salisbury Beach with Anthony Andrukevich as chairman of the outing and Stephanie White as choir master.

John Kindelon, six, of Roslindale, Mass., was given first aid at the beach comfort station by Mrs. Sarah Coffin, attendant on duty, after he burned three of his fingers on a griddle. William Shea, a clerk at Fallon's Drug Store, was also treated by Mrs. Coffin after he badly cut his thumb while at work.

learn to fly and the best way to advance aviation is to get 'em young and get 'em up. And wherever you find Bennett you'll find him enthusiastically preaching the gospel of flying. Even on this trip here he brought a new recruit. It was Dr. Buckley's first cross-country hop.
