air alarms screaming, the distant thud of bombs and bark of anti-aircraft fire into the background. Swimming, tennis, chinese checkers and a romp on the trim green lawn with "Dive," the big black pup, fill up their days and minds.

Biggest event since they left the tall pier at New York, when after the Samaria docked, they lunched in New York, took an express train to Boston and then drove over the road in the quiet New England evening was stopping at a roadside stand and having a "hamburger." England may be famous for its beef, but hamburger is native American.

As the youngsters settled down in the trim white house at Rye with its blue blinds and red geranium window boxes, Mr. and Mrs. Bonner have been careful not to talk about the war. They want the children to forget. "We've talked of everything else," said the noted short story writer.

Justin will go to Fessenden school next season with Anthony E., youngest son of the Bonners. Justin was at the English equivalent of Fessenden (Aldershot) preparing for Eaton when the war entered his life. There are three other boys to become acquainted with Paul, the oldest, who was graduated from Harvard a year ago June, has just passed his physical for the Army Air Corps. John T. is a senior at Harvard and Henry S. is at Phillips Exeter preparing for Harvard.

Church Notice

Holy Communion of Episcopalians at the Community Church, Hampton Beach, 9 A. M. every Sunday during July, August and Sept. 1st. The Rev. Junius J. Norton officiating.

At 2 o'clock in the morning a woman telephoned the manager of a department store. After much ringing, the manager answered with a sleepy and gruff "Hello!"

"This is Mrs. Soandso," said the woman in a syrupy voice. "I just couldn't help calling you personally to tell you that the hat I bought at your store last week is simply stunning. I don't know when I liked anything so much."

"That's all very nice," yawned the manager, "but would you mind telling me why you call me at this hour of the night about a hat you bought last week?"

"Because," she replied sweetly, "your van has just delivered it."

BOOK independence At the end of the year 1775 men in all the thirteen British colonies in America were talking in whispers about somehow getting free from King George. Few were doing anything about it. Massachusetts was in open revolt, but what could one colony do alone?

A journalist whom Benjamin Franklin had induced to come over from England gave the answer. His name was Thomas Paine. He wrote a little book called "Common Sense." The only hope for the colonies, he said, was to unite and jointly declare their independence of Great Britain. Let them bury their jealousies and from a Federal Union. Then they might get their freedom.

The book was published on Jan. 9, 1776. It brought out into public discussion what leaders had been talking in secret. George Washington said that Tom Paine's book "worked a powerful change in the minds of men." The change was so great that within six months a group of representative men from all the thirteen colonies met in Independence Hall in Philadelphia and drew up the Declaration of Independence. The United States of America grew from the clear reasoning of a thoughtful writer.

UNION protection Like Tom Paine, another American has written a book which some thoughtful men are comparing with Tom Paine's "Common Sense." His name is Clarence K. Streit, and his book is called "Union Now." Published early last year, it proposed a Federal Union of the world's democracies, as the only permanent way of protecting their liberties against the rising tide of autocratic governments.

A great many thousand copies of "Union Now" have been circulated. Clarence Streit believes that when millions have read it the vision of a union of interdependent nations will become a reality. It was not easy to get the thirteen independent states of America to get together under a system whereby each gave up some of its independence for the sake of greater security for all. Virginians were afraid that the people of Massachusetts would get greater advantage, and both were afraid of New York's influence. But they finally got together.

LANGUAGE same The only remaining democracies except Switzerland in the world today are the English-speaking peoples. Think of the tragedy which has put the Scandinavian nations, the Low Countries, the rest of the smaller European states under autocratic control! Even France has one—for the time being.

There remain seven great independent democracies, all speaking a common language. They are the United States, the United Kingdom, Canada, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa. All are threatened by the same menace of autocracy. Some are closer to the threat than others. We of America are extending ourselves as never before to equip ourselves with the tools of war.

Among them, the seven democracies control enough of the world's natural resources to control the world's commerce. They control the strategic ports and could, if united, effectively control the seas against any possible combination of hostile powers. Among them they possess the highest degree of scientific, technical and industrial ability, the highest economic standards and the highest average of intelligence.

PLAN representation The plan for an Inter-Continental Congress of representatives of the Union of the Free is now under way. It may be held in Independence Hall, where our own nation was born. The Inter-Continental Congress will call for the election of one representative for each five million people in each of the democracies.

That would give the United States 27 representatives, the United Kingdom 11, Canada and Australia 3 each and Ireland, New Zealand and South Africa 2 each. The United States would have a clear majority of four under such an apportionment.

At the start, the Inter-Continental Congress would be in about the same position as our own Continental Congress was. But it would have the clear objective of a Federal Union, in which each member nation would retain its own form of government, yielding only such powers as our own states had to yield to the national government. Its "Declaration of Interdependence" would have to be followed by a Constitutional Convention; but it all could be done faster in these modern days than our forefathers could move.

AUTHOR equipped Clarence Streit is well equipped to conceive, develop and put forth the program of a union of democracies. Born in Missouri, he never was east of the Mississippi until he left the University of Montana at 21 to enlist as a private soldier in the World War. He went overseas with the first American engineers, was transferred to Military Intelligence, served as a sergeant at G. H. Q. and through the Peace Conference was in charge of secret documents and information.

He went back to Montana University and got his degree and an appointment as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. What he had seen and heard in the discussions at Versailles about the League of Nations has impressed him with the possibilities but also weaknesses of that scheme. He began writing for American newspapers, was correspondent in several European and Oriental capitals, and from 1929 until he published "Union Now" he was the League of Nations correspondent at Geneva for the New York Times.

26th Annual Carnival Climaxes Successful Season

Amateur Auditions Finals Tuesday

Three Manchester singers will compete for the grand prize in the amateur finals to be held next Tuesday evening at 7:00 as one of the feature events of the annual carnival week which gets underway Monday.

William R. Fitzgerald, 342 Pearl street, Manchester, baritone soloist, and the pair of "blues" singers, the Misses Georgia and Eva Karas, 597 Elm street, Manchester, will compete against singers and dancers from Haverhill, Lowell, Somerville and Boston, Mass., for the grand award in the senior division. Only those who placed first in the weekly auditions will participate in the finals.

Six-year-old Constance Gilmore, of Lafayette road, Seabrook, who has danced in many entertainments of nearby communities, will be one of the contestants in the junior division. A youthful instrumental trio composed of Shirley Dow, 9, Robert Dow, 9, and Helen P. Dow, 2, all of New Zealand road, Seabrook, are also among the finalists.

The carnival will open Monday with a program of vaudeville and circus acts at the bandstand. On Thursday there will be a fashion show presented by Kray's Boston Store on the bandstand in connection with the entertainment program. On that day the carnival queen will be selected by popular vote. At the present time Mrs. Bobbie Cann of the beach and Miss Kathryn Sullivan of Medford, Mass., are tied for top honors with Miss Charlotte Moore of Salisbury, Mass., close behind.

Concluding the carnival festivities will be the two-day outing of the New England Townsend clubs at the Casino convention hall on Saturday and Sunday.

Land Three Tunas, Shark In One Day

Landing three tuna fish averaging more than 470 pounds, together with a shark measuring approximately seven feet in length, was the feat of a Hampton Beach fishing party Saturday, which is believed to establish a record for a single fishing party.

The group, members of the North Beach Highlands colony, consisted of Herman L. Smith and James B. Churchill of Exeter, H. Clifford Bean and Wilder Pierce of Hampton, Norman Christenson of Winchester, Mass., Richard Dennison of Newton and Fred Austin of Providence went out fishing early Saturday morning and succeeded in landing tunas weighing 491, 473 and 446 pounds, respectively.

On the way into Plum Island a shark became attracted by the tunas hanging over the side of the boat and it was necessary to boat the three fishes, after which the party managed to catch the shark.

Animals Saved In Blaze Saturday

The horse, cow and farm equipment of W. E. Killam were saved from flames that destroyed the barn while the family was away Saturday afternoon, by Edward Brown, of Winnacunnet road, sexton of the Congregational Church.

The sexton was driving past when he saw one side of the barn afire. After leading the animals to safety he was aided by two neighbor boys in saving the equipment. Fire Chief George Lamont stated that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in the mound of hay next to the barn. Nine tons of hay were destroyed.

Doucette Again Wins Three-Mile Lifeguard Swim

In spite of extremely cold water and a choppy sea, Russell Doucette of Squantum, Mass., a pre-medical student at Boston University repeated his 1938 victory by winning the feature three-mile swim at the annual swimming meet of Hampton Beach life guards Tuesday afternoon. A large crowd followed the race through announcements over the loud speaker system.

Finishing the three-mile course in one hour, 43 minutes, Doucette led William Handley of Boston, Mass., a previous winner in the Boston swim, by a mile. Handley's time was two hours and a half. Michael F. Rynne of Lowell, Mass., was the only other finisher. Sixty-year-old Steven Robush of Lawrence, Mass., who has his application in for five races to Boston Light, took the fourth prize, although he was obliged to drop out at the seven-eighths mark.

Phil Melody, captain of the Hampton Beach Life Guards, conducted the events and awarded prizes, assisted by Ernest Underwood and Dick Hemminway.

Michael Rynne's son, Michael F. Rynne, Jr., won the 880-yard swim, while his youngest son, William, won the 220. Mr. Rynne took second in the 440 with Joseph Walker of Lowell, Mass., in first place. The summary: 220-yard for boys—Won by William Rynne, Lowell; second, Daniel Stone, Manchester; third, Robert Barned, Manchester.

440-yard swim—Won by Joseph Walker, Lowell; second, Michael F. Rynne, Jr., Lowell; third, Robert Ball, Brooklyn, N. Y. 880-yard swim—Won by Michael Rynne, Jr., Lowell; second, Joseph Walker, Lowell; third, Robert Fay, Quincy; fourth, Jerry Marnane, Dorchester.

Three-mile swim—Won by Russell Doucette, Squantum; second, William Handley, Boston; third, Michael F. Rynne, Lowell.

Effort Being Made To Bring Wendell L. Willkie Here During Gala Week Of Special Events

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H., Aug. 29.—Mr. Harold J. Gallagher, who is taking care of the itinerary of Wendell L. Willkie, writes the local Chamber of Commerce that a real effort will be made to include this popular resort when the schedule for New Hampshire is considered.

William H. Cowell, UNH Coach, Dead

William H. Cowell, 52, retired director of athletics at the University of New Hampshire and founder and former president of the American Football Coaches' association, died early Wednesday evening at the Wentworth Hospital in Dover.

Ill health caused him to relinquish his duties as head coach of football at the university two years ago and since that time he has served in the capacity of professor and director of physical education and athletics.

His only survivor is a brother, Roland Cowell of White Hall, Mich. No arrangements have been made as yet for the funeral.

"Butch," as he was familiarly known to undergraduates and the vast alumni body of the university, came to Durham in 1915 from the Haskell Institute in Kansas where he served as coach in 1914. He was head coach from 1915 to 1938.

In the course of the 22 years' service Cowell played the major role in the development of the university's athletic department from its modest beginning in the days of New Hampshire State College to the present time when more than 1,600 university students find available room and equipment to take part in a well-rounded program of athletics.

Perhaps the greatest football victory under the regime of "Butch" Cowell was the 10-7 victory over the Army which his 1921 aggregation accomplished to stun the gridiron world. Another of his teams, led by the famous "Dutch" (Continued on Page Eight)

There is basis for the hope that Willkie may visit Hampton Beach sometime during the Carnival Week which begins next Monday, Labor Day, for it has been given out that he would go into Maine sometime during the coming week.

But whether Hampton is privileged to entertain the Republican candidate for President or not, the 26th annual Carnival Week will go on as scheduled. Beginning Labor Day and ending on Sunday, Sept. 8, this gala week at Hampton has become an institution. As usual there will be daily band concerts by Major Everett Allyn Moses and the Hampton Beach Concert band. A program of vaudeville and circus acts will be presented each afternoon and evening with complete changes in this phase of the program on Wednesday and Friday. Another feature, always popular, will be the fireworks displays presented every night at ten o'clock. All of the entertainment is free to the general public.

The special events include the final auditions which have been held every week during the season; the annual fall fashion revue and the award of the gift automobile. The Townsend Clubs of New England meet here Sept. 7 and 8. Carnival Week will bring to a successful close the 1940 season at Hampton, a season which has been most satisfactory from the standpoint of local business people and likewise from the viewpoint of over a million visitors who have been entertained here this summer.

Tell your friends about your summer at Hampton Beach. Ask them to join you next year.

Have You Heard?

By The Gadabouts

Have You Heard?
 That Labor Day ushers in the 26th annual Carnival Week with a bigger and better program than ever? Plan to attend and don't forget to tell your friends back home.

Have You Heard?
 That the contest for Queen of the Carnival is in a deadlock at present and probably will not be decided until next Thursday?

Have You Heard?
 That you can help your favorite candidate for queen by purchasing a chance on the beautiful car to be given away? Incidentally, you might win it—you never can tell.

Have You Heard?
 That old gag, "I couldn't win anything if I held all the tickets but one"?

Have You Heard?
 That Paul Regan completely captivated his audiences during the past few days. This youthful 23-year-old impersonator is making good in a big way on RKO circuit and certainly has the best wishes of every person who hears him.

Have You Heard?
 That Paul is one of the highest paid, youngest and most successful stage screen, radio and night club entertainers in the country?

Have You Heard?
 That the fashion show to be presented Thursday evening at the bandstand will feature the latest fall styles? Sad as it is, summer is almost wend.

Have You Heard?
 That again, as in the past, our friend and everybody's friend, "Benny" (Quality) Kray, has been chosen to exhibit the latest fashions? Ben is second to none when it comes to selecting the smartest styles for his modern store.

Have You Heard?
 What happened to the harbor lights Monday evening?

Have You Heard?
 That despite the darkness the Advocate distributors landed safely from their trip on the "Juanita", thanks to Cliff Moir?

Have You Heard?
 That Russ Doucette repeated his 1938 victory Tuesday by winning the three-mile swim race sponsored by the lifeguards

Have You Heard?
 That sixty-year-old Steven Robush put up a game struggle to remain in the race only to be forced out at the seven-eighths mark on account of the extremely cold water and choppy surf?

Have You Heard?
 What one of the socialite lifeguards at the state bathhouse will do this winter when the "Glam" girls are gone?

Have You Heard?
 That the boys up at the North Beach Highlands did pretty well for themselves last Saturday in managing to hook three tunas in one afternoon? To complete the day they speared a shark on their trip home just to show it wasn't all luck.

Have You Heard?
 That the amateur finals will be held next Tuesday night? A great contest is assured from the array of talent that has been before the "mike".

Have You Heard?
 That several of the boys down at the fire station are planning to attend the annual State Firemen's Association Convention in Keene next Thursday?

Have You Heard?
 That the coast guardsmen are prepared for any kind of duty even to aiding the bridge tender in opening the draw for some irritated persons

Have You Heard?
 That Wendell L. Willkie may make a stop at Happy Hampton Beach on his itinerary into Maine? Certainly no public figure today could draw any bigger crowd than this popular candidate.

Have You Heard?
 That the Townsend Clubs of New England will hold their convention at the beach September 7, and 8. It is expected that the founder, Dr. Francis Townsend will be here in person.

Have You Heard?
 That Hampton Beach hopes to welcome you back next summer? Plan your next summer's vacation now.

Have You Heard?
 That with this last issue, the Advocate wishes all its readers a fine winter and hopes to see you all back again next summer?

Rural Women To Enjoy Rest And Relaxation At Beach

One of the greatest opportunities offered to rural women through the sponsorship of the state extension services and farm bureau organizations is that of the Rockingham County Women's Rest camp. Through their efforts, arrangements have been made to accommodate 100 women at the Hotel Avon, Hampton Beach, during the week beginning Sunday, Sept. 8, where, for the same small cost as last year, any woman from the country may avail herself of the opportunity for relaxation, education and recreation provided.

One of the interesting features of this camp program is that most of the participants are country people. In other words, an effort has been made to use "Home Talent." So many people are doing interesting and worthwhile things with their leisure time and it is a great pleasure to have them share their "hobbies" with other campers.

The tentative program includes a 15-minute talk each morning by some person who has achieved success with their particular hobby; a demonstration on hammered brass and pewter by Mrs. Erba Gibson of Hampstead; a demonstration on rug making by Mrs. George Brown of Hampton Falls; a demonstration on f Cable road, Rye; a demonstration on "Clever suggestion for Xmas Gifts" by Mrs. Bertha Farryall of Raymond; an electric cooking demonstration by Miss Lerschen of the Public Service company, Manchester; a demonstration on finger-printing by Manning Remick of Rye; a talk by Sheriff Simes Frink of Newington; a talk on Old Glass by Mrs. Helen McLaughlin, now head of the Home Economics department of the University and formerly home demonstration agent in Rockingham county; a demonstration on weaving by Mrs. Dorothy Sargent of Danville; an illustrated talk on the subject of "America the Beautiful" by Mrs. Hayden Cheeny of Newton Junction. Also, an illustrated lecture on the subject of "Flower Arrangement"; an evening

Traveling Around America

A CITADEL WITH 3,000 STAIRWAYS

STREETS had little chance in this ancient Citadel of Machu Picchu. It was built on the sides of such a steep cliff that stairways were used almost exclusively to join the various structures. One ambitious and untiring explorer counted three thousand of these staircases—some are carved from the rock itself, others have been constructed from ashlar. In some places they are as narrow and sharp as stone pegs. They scramble over jagged rocks, drop down into deep crevices, and climb the wall-like cliff—leading from squares and burial grounds to temples, palaces and sanctuaries.

Some authorities contend that the roofless rooms and tumbled towers of Machu Picchu once were a great city. A majority believe that here was a mighty citadel built by the Incas. Be that as it may, the ruins are considered the most fascinating to be seen on the continent today. The trip from Cuzco through the wilderness of the Urubamba Valley is one of the most thrilling excursions included in the weekly 33-day cruises to Cuzco and the Land of the Incas.

Even the farms which supplied food for the settlement were terraced—built like stairsteps up the sides of the mountains. In many places stone aqueducts followed these staircases—for the water supply was brought down from distant peaks. Reaching the citadel the water was distributed to several basins on different terraces—falling in graceful cascades from one level to the other.

Her father, "What? She's consented to marry you? Young man, you're the second happiest man in the world!"

Greer Garson At Ioka

Bounding from one bright comedy situation to another and from gentle chuckles to hilarious laughs, "Pride and Prejudice," starring Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier, provides one of the season's most pleasant entertainments when it comes to the Ioka Theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The story centers around the Bennet family, handicapped by five unwedded daughters. Miss Garson makes a lovely and intelligent Elizabeth. Olivier is Darcy, a proud and wealthy young aristocrat. Despite his pride in family and distaste for the Bennets, Darcy falls in love with Elizabeth who is prejudiced against his arrogance from the first. The various romances of the Bennet girls are interwoven with the love affair of Elizabeth and Darcy.

There will be a continuous show Monday, starting at 2:15.

Determine Costs Of Apple Growing

Some New Hampshire soils on farms that have relatively low valuations are well adapted to the growing of apples. But the problems of figuring costs exactly on the production of a long-time crop like apples are complex.

Growers are divided in their opinions of the value of permanent, semi-permanent, and filler trees in planting the new orchard. What land and what type of planting to use, as well as varieties and culture are important factors in the success of the orchardist.

Economists and horticulturists of the New Hampshire Agricultural Experiment Station have just issued a new bulletin on the analysis of orchard costs. Growers can get a better understanding of their costs and the way to budget them over the growing years of the orchard by a study of this bulletin.

Persons interested in this study of orchard costs may get a copy by writing to the Extension Service at Durham, N. H. Ask for Station Bulletin 323, A Study of Orchard Problems by the Budget Method of Analysis.

"Mortal Storm" At The Olympia

A gala holiday program has been arranged for patrons of the Olympia Theatre in Portsmouth on next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday when the double-hit bill will include the thrilling drama, "The Mortal Storm," and the latest mystery film in the Charlie Chan series entitled "Charlie Chan at the Wax Museum."

"The Mortal Storm," a moving story of love and self sacrifice, is fast being acclaimed one of the really fine pictures of the current season. The large cast includes Margaret Sullivan, Frank Morgan, James Stewart, Robert Young and Irene Rich.

"Charlie Chan at the Wax Museum" packs more excitement, action and thrills in its footage than any of its predecessors according to preview reports. Sidney Toler again plays the role of the clever Chinese detective and the supporting cast includes Joan Vaele, C. Henry Gordon and Sen Yung.

Henry Fonda At The Colonial

In "The Return of Frank James," new 20th Century-Fox Technicolor production at the Colonial Theatre starting Sunday, Tyrone Power plays one of the strangest roles in the history of the screen. As a matter of fact, his name does not appear on the cast and credits, with those of Henry Fonda, Gene Tierney, Jackie Cooper and the other players.

For in "The Return of Frank James" there are only sixty feet of film on which Power appears—the briefest moment. It is at the very beginning of the film, where the thread of the last moment in "Jesse James" is picked up. Power's back is to the audience. They see him shot, fall, and from then on, the sequel to the biggest boxoffice success of 1939 goes on to detail the manner in which Henry Fonda as "Frank James" takes revenge for his brother's murder.

U. of N. H. Must Produce A Winning Team This Season

DURHAM, N. H., August 29.—Coach George Sauer will have no complaint to make about the number of lettermen returning to the University of New Hampshire squad this fall.

Unless some of them fail to report at the start of training camp, September 3, the Wildcat coach will have 15 insignia wearers on hand.

The numbers are fairly evenly divided among positions with the exception of guard, which boasts only one. There are five backs, four ends, three tackles, and two centers listed.

Little pessimism will be evident on the New Hampshire grid front unless the unexpected materializes. Sauer said recently that if he can find a tackle as clever and aggressive as the graduated Ario Piretti he will be able to make a number of rash predictions. One of the implied fore-tellings is that New Hampshire's record will be better than in the last two rather dreary years.

A farmer can now buy a single package of electrical fixtures to completely equip his farm home at a price not much more than half what he would have to pay if he bought the items singly.

This is the season for sheep growers to cull out all broken-mouthed, barren, light-shearing, and undersized ewes from the breeding flock. They can be replaced with the best ewe lambs of this year's crop.

Have You Heard? That another red head, Barbara Eastman, is visiting at the beach.

At The Arcadia

The Arcadia Theatre is presenting another de luxe vaudeville show on their stage on Friday and Saturday. It is titled "Al Lemon's Tip Top Merry-maker's Revue" and consists of six big time vaudeville acts put together in a snappy unit.

Among the featured stars are Al Lemon and Rita Doyle in "Comical Capers," Paul Green in "Bone Bender Boners," Babbette, the famous comedienne, in "Song Rythm, Eddie Laverne, the Musical Minstrel, and Monty and Lyons, those Funny Funny Funsters.

Two major screen hits will be shown, "Panama Patrol," with Leon Ames and Charlotte Winters, plus "The Cowboy From Sundown," starring Tex Ritter. There will be three stage shows daily.

Gala Midnight Party At Frolics

The Frolics at Salisbury Beach will celebrate the Labor day holiday with a gala midnight party Sunday night.

Dancing will be enjoyed until 4 a. m. in addition to the usual high-class stage show featuring Billy DeWolfe, master of ceremonies and the 10 beautiful Frolickettes.

There will be special entertainment during the early hours of the evening with dancing to Henry Kalis and his orchestra starting at midnight.

The Frolics will remain open until September 7. Reservations for the midnight party or any evening during the remainder of the season can be made in advance.

Park League Committee Announces Final Standings As 1940 Season Closes

The figures for the Park League were released today covering the team standings as well as the batting averages.

R. Moore of North Beach, who participated in six games, took top honors for the "B" League with a neat .637. Young Philbrick of Rye Beach was second, playing in four contests and batting for .555. Third place goes to Dalton of the Pirates who, despite his size, batted for .467.

Foster Pierce of the Red Sox played in nine contests and leads the "A" division with a .722. Foster's consistent hitting gives him an undisputed hold on first place despite Roger Shaw's excellent bid to wrest the title from him. Roger is a Forest Ranger and leads in the extra base division. He batted .628.

Hobbs of North Hampton rated third, playing in 11 games and batting .583. The Forest Rangers repeated last year's triumph despite the single setback they received at the hands of the Gulls earlier in the season. Bill Elliot's coaching showed up well when it came to the pinches.

In the "B" League competition the Pirates under Eliot Noyes forged into the lead in mid-season and never relinquished it to the end.

In looking over the following tables you will notice that some of the boys have played in more games than the team was scheduled but they took a chance on lowering their averages by filling in on other contests.

The schedules called for twelve contests in group "A" and nine in group "B". While actual count has not yet been taken it is believed that about 130 boys participated in the League activities. This represents a tremendous undertaking on the part of those who donated their time and services, but while it was felt the 1939 campaign was successful the committee in charge admits this year was much more so.

The curtain has been rung down on the 1940 Park League and the trip to see a big league game, and of course the banquet, is yet to be. Those eligible will be notified by their managers or sponsors.

Word was received last night that the Boston Red Sox could not extend the Hampton Park League the desired invitation to attend a big league game in the Hub. However, the hopes have not been dashed as the Committee is now contacting the Bees.

THE DOCTOR Tells the Story

by W. E. AUCHINCLOSS

ECCENTRICITIES

The minds of the majority of the human family are a mixture of superstitions, erratic beliefs and morbid fears. Little minds are deeply concerned by trifling things, while great minds see all things, and are not even surprised. Most cases of eccentric minds result from mental disturbances for examination of the victims give no definite physical signs or characteristics of altered or abnormal conditions. Such people imagine they have pains in organs which are proven absolutely sound, or they assume they cannot walk and remain bed-ridden for years or a lifetime. Usually all these imaginative or sick fantasies may be grouped under the name of hysteria.

There is also another type of case which cannot be so classified from a medical standpoint and which was relatively common in the Middle Ages and at the beginning of the last century, but which today is seldom met with, due to our advanced learning. The Flagellantes, who upset much of Europe during the 14th century, is an outstanding example of this latter class which became so fanatical and violent that it was ultimately disbanded by the Church. The number of followers that such hysterical leaders have is beyond belief.

The best illustration is that of the Greek Emperor Anaxagoras, who believed his aunts had turned into cows and lived by eating only grass. This strange thought became epidemic in his empire and practically all the women took to belching like cows and eating grass. It took years for them to become normal again.

A remarkable case in medical literature is that of an ancient titled dame who imagined she was a hen and spent hours daily sitting on a nest in a wash basket, trying to hatch chickens from three balls of Holland cheese. In Geneva, a woman who profitably operated a ladies' tailoring shop during the day, changed her entire demeanor, facial expression and actions after closing her store and became Marie Antoinette, observing even the smallest detail of that royal lady's behavior, having for her court of admiring attendants erratic friends who also believed her the former queen. When morning came she returned to work, a perfectly balanced business woman.

I had a patient, a young man of 26 years, who imagined himself the son of the Sun. He wrote many books, using a language he devised, the words being formed of a marvelous type of hieroglyphics, each letter of which was a masterpiece of art. At sunrise, at noon, and at sunset, he stood facing the sun, reading in his peculiar jargon from one of these books and going through a series of genuflections. On all other subjects he was absolutely normal. He even accumulated a fortune in the stock market.

Sometimes it is possible to cure these patients by suggestion, but many cases persist in their erratic belief and behavior until death releases them of their worries.

Day Of Diversion Is Huge Success

A homing pigeon race from Rye Beach to Nashua featured the fifth annual Day of Diversion program sponsored by the Community Service Committee Saturday at the Farragut Hotel. Nineteen pigeons were released, two carrying messages from the Rye Beach Police Department to Chief Ralph Stearns of the Nashua Police Department and to Governor Francis P. Murphy.

The first pigeon reached Nashua one hour, two minutes after being released. The pigeon was owned by Sergt. Benjamin B. Murray of the Nashua Police Department.

Fete Successful
The summer fete was unusually successful and as a result the Exeter hospital will have a new oxygen tent while the other proceeds will be given to the Golden Rule Farm for boys at Franklin to aid in purchasing a new school bus.

The Golden Rule Farm glee club gave a concert in the hotel foyer, after which there was a style show. There was also a pet show under the direction of John W. Hopley of Portsmouth. Judges were Patrick M. Longan of Epping, Edward S. Seavey, Jr., and Miss Lucy P. Connors of Hampton, Mrs. George Burroughs and Mrs. Charles W. Merrill of Exeter.

Among the outstanding attractions were exhibition of the Exeter hospital and the State Fish and Game Department, a demonstration of dermatics in charge of Mrs. Edith F. Boutwell of Portsmouth. At the book table Nat A. Barrows, Boston newspaper man, autographed copies of his book, "Blow All, Ballast," the story of the submarine Squalus.

Mrs. Alfred W. Rosser of Hampton was general chairman, with Mrs. Richard D. Currier of Rye Beach secretary and treasurer. Members of the advisory committee included Maj. Charles E. Greenman, Judge John W. Perkins, Mrs. John Paine Wingate, Alfred W. Rosser, Fred B. Batchelder, Hampton; Harry E. Jackson, Manchester; Dr. Donald W. Leonard, Exeter; Mrs. Arthur L. Hobson, Philip N. Batch Of Smiles

Machine Age

A self-styled reformer was watching a trench being dug by modern machine methods. He said to the superintendent: "This machine has taken jobs from scores of men. Why don't you junk that machine and put one hundred men in that ditch with shovels?"

The superintendent promptly retorted: "Or better still why not put a thousand men in there with teaspoons!"

Tipped Off

"Why do you always take off your hat when I tell you a joke?" "That's my way of greeting old acquaintances."

Sunk

To the large publishing house came a manuscript with a note from a woman, who requested that the story be read immediately. "I must have a decision very quickly," she wrote, "because I have several other irons in the fire." A few days later her manuscript went back with the following message: "We have read your story. Our advice is to put along side the irons!"

Cowells, scored an upset triumph over a heavily-favored Holy Cross college eleven in a memorable game at Manchester.

A native of Lynn, Mass., Cowell served 10 years as chairman of the National Collegiate Boxing Rules Association, a position he still held at the time of his death.

As a student he played tackle for the University of Kansas in 1909-10, the University of Illinois in 1912 and the University of Pittsburg in 1913. He earned degrees at the latter two institutions and while at Pittsburg won honorable mention on Walter Camp's All-American team.

In 1925 he served as president of the American Football Coaches' association and had been serving as that organization's secretary-treasurer from 1925 to the time of his death.

During the World War Cowell served with the 26th Division.

For jelly making, select fresh, firm fruit that is ripe to slightly underripe. If overripe fruit is used, add one cup strained apple juice to each cup of the fruit juice.

To remove automobile grease stains from clothing, rub unsalted fat into the stain, and after a few minutes wash in soapsuds or sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

Brief Interviews With Interesting People

By MARTHA M. BOUTWELL

"I'm dancing with tears in my eyes"—The lights were dim, the music was soft and lifting. Men and women in evening clothes were sitting at the tables near the orchestra, and their eyes focussed upon the spotlight as an attractive blonde woman stepped in front of the microphone.

In silence they waited as the husky-throated songstress brought words and music together. "I'm dancing with tears in my eyes cause the boy in my arms isn't you."

Al Dublin, composer of 2,500 popular songs was at one of the tables. But his thoughts were at the Coconut Grove where just a few months before the song hit was born. Brightly gowned young women were dining and dancing with their escorts. To the casual observer this was a carefree, happy atmosphere. For Al Dublin the Coconut Grove ballroom held a different story. "I noticed that most of the girls were between 15 and 20 years of age. They all looked lovely, but I didn't see a smile on one young lady's face. Why should these girls seem so sad. I asked myself, when they were supposed to be having a good time? Then I noticed that they were all dancing with men years older than themselves. This was depression. Suddenly it dawned on me. I wondered whether these young women weren't thinking, 'I wish Jimmy who works in the garage around the corner earned enough money to bring me here.'"

Dublin put his thoughts to work and soon a nation was singing "Dancing With Tears In My Eyes". Dublin also wrote the lyrics for such popular songs as "Shuffle Off To Buffalo" and "Tip-Toe Through The Tulips With Me". "But most people are pretty surprised when they hear I write songs," laughed the composer. They usually think I'm a butcher or something like that when they look at me and they can't believe that I'd write a song about tip-toeing through the tulips."

Al Dublin is forty-five and he is the father of two daughters, one of whom is a recent college graduate. "I've been writing songs since I was sixteen," he informed us. "St. Nicholas Magazine started me on my career. They used to have contests for children, and I used to try for the drawing prizes. I never won any prizes, though I just got honorable mention. Then I decided to see if I could win a prize by writing a poem. My verse won a prize, so I kept on writing verses."

Dublin is now employed by the Warner Brothers' Studio in Hollywood, and he is friendly with James Cagney, Warner Baxter, and other noted motion picture stars. "When I first started working with the movie stars it was exciting," he declared. "But the excitement faded away when I found out that actors and actresses were just human beings after all."

"It's far more difficult to write words than music," Dublin told us. "It's easy to change the rhythm and time of old melodies so they won't be recognized. But you have to have more originality when you write words. You have to analyze what you're doing, and you have to blend the music and poem carefully. I usually let the melody writer do his work first. It's simpler that way."

"When you write popular music you have to put forward a thought that's universal—something which everyone else has thought. It should be told sincerely, without too much sophistication, and it should appeal to the hearts, not to the mind. Being sincere is more important than being clever."

"Many exciting things have happened to me, but my most thrilling experience occurred during the World War. It was my first night at the front, and I was in the Blue Wood. Everything was very terrible. Around me were the bodies of dead soldiers. I glanced down at my feet and there I saw a Denver paper carrying an advertisement of one of my songs. Just a few minutes later I walked past a sentry, and he was whistling one of my songs."

"But my strangest experience occurred right here in this country. I was nearly carried away when a man informed me that he was Al Dublin and that he had written all my songs."
