AROUND THE BEACH

Onmun Daymorn

To be walking along with an attempted dignified air and to have something ridiculous happen to you is at times rather embarrassing. It was this morning.

I had just come out of Margaret Junkins Shoppe where I had purchased a box of my favorite peanut butter kisses and was wending my homeward way, my mind as usual, floating up in the clouds, dreaming of the next leisurely hour with my new book and my kisses, when it happened. My heel came off. So that's trivial is it? Well, have you ever tried walking on tiptoe in a heel-less shoe? Try it sometime. Notice the pitying glances you get from passers-by who notice your plight. Desperately seek a shoe shop to repair your errant shoe. You might, of course, take off your shoe and walk in your stocking feet in order to be balanced. I do not recommend this, however, for silk stockings, 'tis said, are bound to be scarce and the contact of hard cement with silken material is hardly conducive to the longevity of the stockings.

You might, of course, take off the silk stockings, tuck them inside the shoes, and proceed as before, but this, too, is apt to look a trifle incongruous if you are dressed in your party best. If you are attired in Tahitian play clothes or overalls, bare footedness is permissible but other than that—really!

My course was to leave the shoes on, clasp the heel tightly and seek a shoe-repairing shop. To take off my shoes was out of the question. I was attired neither in playclothes, nor in overalls. I was in my Sunday best with hat and gloves to boot.

After turning down two or three side streets, I finally found the right one entered the shoe shop and had my shoe repaired. I walked out again with the old assurance.

On the way back I dropped in at Coleman's to watch the man make the cones for a while, and asked a thousand silly questions as to how they were made, which he patiently answered. Just watching him make the cones made me hungry so I bought a chocolate ice cream cone and gave him my verdict. "Good," said I. "Very good."

And munching the cone, I wandered to my patient half-read book, with the morning behind me.

Wrong Number?

And then there is the yarn about the fellow who called up a theater and ordered a "box for five." "We haven't anv," the man answered, "and besides you're nuts." Eventually the poor fellow discovered he had been connected with an undertaking parlor!

Farragut Players Present Drama Of World Import

The action of "Flight to the West," Elmer Rice's newest play which is being presented this week at the Farragut Playhouse, Rye Beach, N. H. (Tuesday, Aug. 26 through Saturday Aug. 30) takes place in a transatlantic clipper enroute from Lisbon to New York.

It is a drama of such timeliness, such vigor and such lucid exposition as to catalogue itself immediately among those dramatic commentaries upon the present state of the world as Robert Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight" and "There Shall Be No Night". As was the case with those plays, the significance of "Flight to the West" has apparently burst the bounds of the theatre and become part of today's deep-rooted thinking about the values at stake in the present world upheaval.

In three acts and seven scenes it assembles in three compartments of a Pan American transatlantic clipper a cross-section of all the warring elements of Europe and America that have churned civilization into a maelstrom of hatred, conspiracy, lust, treachery, and hopelessness. There are the Nazi diplomat and his Russian satellite in the subtle art of undermining American thought; the philosophical writer, doubtful of his own conclusions in the face of confused fact and muddled truth; the American oil magnate whose greed for profit bends him toward

Rye Beach Social Notes

One of the important events of the past week was a large dinner dance for the young people of the summer colony which was given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perry at their home, "Sea Verge," Little Boar's Head.

Of particular interest this week has been the exhibition of her sculpture and painting by Miss Malvina Hoffman. The exhibition was held for the benefit of the American Red Cross, in the support of which Miss Hoffman has been most active during her stay here this summer. Among the distinguished visitors to this exhibition was Miss Anne Morgan, director of the American Red Cross Ambulance corps in Paris.

Visiting her mother, Mrs. Arthur L. Hobson of Little Boar's Head, is Mrs. Earl H. Bradley of Haverhill, Mass. Also visiting Mrs. Hobson is her granddaughter, Miss Peggy Bradley, and her fiance, Mr. Guy Maynard.

Married at St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea at noon Monday were Mr. Lynn Kirtland and Miss Helen W. Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Griffith of Indianapolis, Ind. Rev. Mr. Matthew Warren performed the ceremony. Mr. Edward G. Kirtland was the best man and Miss Sylvia Griffith was her sister's only attendant. Mr. Kirtland is an instructor at Exeter Academy and the couple will reside in Exeter.

His many friends will mourn the passing of Mr. J. Leeds Barrol of Philadelphia. He was the oldest summer resident of Rye Beach having resided here summers for 54 years. He was in his 86th year.

The Water Carnival was held at the Beach club last Sunday and the grand trophy was won by Miss Mary Wallace of Brookline, Mass. The runner-up was Miss Nancy Floyd of Manchester, N. H.

Miss Wallace won 3 races for a total of 15 points.

The outstanding events were the girls' Aquacade and the Victory V boat, the latter being for the smaller contestants.

Sue Bowditch was the nurse, Perry Davidson was the soldier, and Malcolm Swenson was the sailor. The girls taking part in the aquacade were: Mary and Betty Wallace, Catherine Haffenreffer, Marie Goding, Betty and Mary Ellen Swenson, Nancy Floyd, Joan Jackson and Phyllis Adams.

Recent arrivals at the Farragut: Miss Anne Morgan of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Blackford, Springfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Whiteford and son, Joseph, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Woodard, Nashua, N. H.; Mr. John Fox Weiss and his sister, Miss Carrie Weiss of Harrisburg, Pa.

Camera Contest Fans 'Take Over' Beach For 2 Days

By special train and bus hundreds of camera fans from all over New England flocked to the beach yesterday and today to take part in the Boston Post's camera carnival of fun and snapshotting.

Cameras of every size and description along with a lot of extra technical gadgets could be seen all about the beach and the click of the shutters was to be heard above the laughter and joy of these city folk out on a two-day photo fest.

Glamour Girls
Two "glamour girls" were brought along as guests of the newspaper to aid the camera fans and make tempting targets for all shooting boxes.

The two "glamour girls" were chosen by Mr. Herbert F. Lang, a professional photo-illustrator himself, from among New England's most successful fashion and photo-illustrator models. One of them is Miss Eleanor Ewe (pronounce it Ee-wee please) of Arlington, the girl selected by no less authorities than the Harvard Lampoon editors as their first choice for super-super-glamour rating to surpass all the screenland celebrities of Hollywood. The other is the famous Miss Doris Poland of Boston's Back Bay, tallest model of them all, a specialist among the artists of the lens for "laughing shots" and officially the possessor of "the most beautiful lips in New England."

Special Prizes

What's all the shooting for? Why for fame and fortune and possibly a chance to bag that $1500 top prize in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards as usual—but for this event there's something more that's even more immediate and urgent in appeal.

Among those participating yesterday and today, some lucky camera-toter is going to win, with one fortunate snapshot, one of the two things almost every camera hobbyist has yearned or is yearning to own. One of them is the very latest super-sensitive General Electric exposure meter, with its photo-electric eye rigged to register the exactly correct exposure in a three-speed light range, dim, medium and bright. The other one is a fully equipped flashgun camera of the 35 mm. "candid camera" type for making shots on black-and-white or color film.

The deluxe exposure meter is being awarded by the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce to the one who enters in the current Post contest the best snapshot taken at the beach during the two-day Camera Carnival.

Summer Visitor Dies At Rye Beach

John Leeds Barroll of Rye Beach and Philadelphia, Pa., who has been coming to Rye Beach each summer for the past 58 years, died early yesterday morning at the Drake house, Rye Beach. He first came to Rye Beach in 1884 and at that time resided on Cable road.

He was a native of Chestertown, Md., where he was born 85 years ago. He was employed as a young man by the Philadelphia and Reading railroad and was later in the real estate and insurance business. He made his home some winters in Gwynedd Valley, Pa., and also in Florida.

An enthusiastic golfer, he played in the senior tournament at the Abenague Golf club for a number of years. He had played golf at the Rye course since 1914. Hunting ruffed grouse was another favorite sport which he always enjoyed. He always credited those two sports as responsible for his good health, which he maintained until the end.

Coast Guardsmen Doucette Winner Save Man After Of 3-mile Swim All-night Search

Tossed all night in his 30-foot fishing boat by a roaring southeaster, Arthur Green, Hampton Beach, was rescued by the Coast Guard at dawn yesterday.

Green, who sailed from Salisbury Monday morning, was not missed until early Monday night. Then three Coast Guardsmen launched a search from the mouth of Hampton river and set out to find him.

All night they cruised the area not until dawn Tuesday, when the storm had broken, did they sight Green's boat nearly three miles off Hampton Beach.

Boatswain's Mate Thurston Peabody was in charge of the detail. With him were Surfman Real Starie and Seaman Thurston Manchester.

Greer Garson At Ioka

Inspired by the life of Mrs. Edna Gladney of Fort Worth, founda-and Aid Society, who has devoted thirty years to child welfare and has found happy homes for more than 2000 babies, "Blossoms in the Dust," starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon comes to the Ioka Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, August 31 and September 1 and 2.
Filmed in Technicolor, the picture reveals for the first time the full beauty of the red-headed, green-eyed Irish actress who rose to stardom overnight with her memorable performance of "Mrs.
Chips" in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips." Now, as Mrs. Gladney, she has been given another tender, warmly human role of equal brilliance.
The most dramatic and heart-touching story ever brought to the screen, the picture opens in the gay, colorful Gibson Girl period of 1906, when lovely Edna Kahley meets, falls in love with and marries Gladney, played by Pidgeon.
Mrs. Gladney becomes interested in child welfare when she observes the difficulties women workers in her husband's flour mill have in caring for their children.
Simply and quietly Mrs. Gladney goes about her chosen work of helping babies and assuring reforms in adoption laws. When Sam Gladney suffers financial reverses and loses the mills they move to Fort Worth, where Mrs. Gladney rings every doorbell in Texas in order to secure funds to start a new home. The screen has never brought a more beautiful romantic story to the screen than this one of a woman who fell in love with 2000 babies.

Ellery Queen At Arcadia

When the perfect detective runs across the perfect crime, anything's liable to happen. The "anything," according to advance praise of "Ellery Queen and the Perfect Crime," is about tops in excitement, suspense and thrills. The new film, which opens Sunday at the Arcadia Theatre, is another in the popular screen series based upon the deductive exploits of the famous fiction and radio sleuth.
Third of Columbia's Ellery Queen films, "Ellery Queen and the Perfect Crime," again presents likable Ralph Bellamy in the major role. Others familiar to mystery movie fans are Margaret Lindsay, as Nikki Porter, Ellery's lovely secretary and rival sleuth; Charley Grapewin, as bluff, tough Inspector Queen, and James Burke as Sergeant Velie.
The companion film is a new action thriller starring Gene Autry in "Under Fiesta Stars."
Have You Heard?
That those rumors going around about George being a woman-hater are unfounded? Business before pleasure, you know, girls. In the summer it's strictly business. The winter? Well, that's another story.

FARRAGUT PLAYERS —

"doing business" with the dictators, all of whom he has met personally; the female columnist, whose militant Americanism expresses itself in action as well as words; the young bride, who has roamed the world as daughter of an American consular agent, always in a vain effort to escape from war; and her young Jewish husband; the pitiful refugees from Germany, Belgium and France, their minds and hearts permanently scarred by the exquisite brutality of Nazi "culture"—and, of course, the officers and crew of the ship on which they all futilely seek to elude the terror of a world gone mad.

Out of the groping philosophies, bitter antagonisms, and deep-rooted convictions of this expansive gallery of characters, Mr. Rice has fashioned a clear-cut, direct and moving play that comes to grips, with intelligence and power, with the problems of espionage, appeasement, the fifth column, the persecution of the Jews and the fundamental error of totalitarian "rationalized madness" as opposed to the democratic way of life.

Unquestionably one of the greatest dramas of our time, "Flight to the West" opened on Broadway this past winter to the accompaniment of cheers from the critics. They were agreed that not since "Street Scene" has Mr. Rice brought such excitement to the stage. Brooks Atkinson wrote in the New York Times: "Elmer Rice has written one of the most stirring dramas. The talk is plain and blunt, such as you have heard and read for the past two years. But the effect is remarkably absorbing for the talk tells some of the bitter truths of today against the sounding board of reality. 'Flight to the West' is the most absorbing American drama of the season."

William R. Anderson has directed the Farragut's production with skill, perception, and sincerity worthy of the author's greatest hopes. The most unusual stage setting seen in this locale for many years is Duncan Stuart's interior of the trans-Atlantic clipper.

Leading roles in this exciting drama are played this week by Leonora d'Esti, Nicholas Vardac, Mary O'Neil, George McConville, Frederick Kidder and Stanley Whitehead. Others include Barbara Boots, Elizabeth Bohrer, Anne Appleton, Eleanor Welch, Dean Thueson, George Irving and Joseph Warren.

For its final production of the season, opening Tuesday, September 2nd and playing through Saturday, September 6th, the Farragut will present Benn Levy's delightful farce-comedy, "Springtime for Henry".

Hot Chance
A woman visited a store, at which a mannequin parade was provided as a tearoom attraction, with her 5-year-old daughter.

In the sudden stillness caused by the entrance of four beautiful damsels clad in the most ravishing of pajamas, the little child piped, shrilly: "Oh, mummy! We really must bring daddy here!"

"Mummy, you said that baby had your eyes and Daddy's nose, didn't you?"
"Yes, darling."
"Well, you'd better keep your eye on him; he's got Grandpa's teeth now."

Painful Parting A certain travelling man has gained a reputation for devotion to his wife by taking her about with him wherever he travels, notwithstanding the fact that she has features known as homely. One evening he was with two of his friends, both of whom had married beautiful girls.

"How is it," said one of them, "that we, who have married beautiful girls, always leave them at home, while you insist upon taking your wife wherever you go?"

The hero of the tale turned to companions and replied, with a sigh: "Boys, to tell the truth, I just can't seem to get up courage to kiss her good-bye."

Go BACK TO SCHOOL in Style

Saucy, smart, casual, it's designed to bring out all the youthful loveliness of the hair. And, according to Evelyn, it's just what the young miss needs to give her a "HEAD" start toward a perfect Fall... to make HIM fall! Best of all, it's an easy-to-care-for coiffure that's as light on the budget as it is on the head.

The POMPY Hat is an eye-catcher... and a beau-catcher as well! Styled on Fifth Avenue, the home of original creations, it's the jauntiest little hat a girl ever popped on her head... and it's worn off the face to show off the POMPY Coif!

POMPY Hat retails for $1.50 or more, but it's given FREE when a patron gets one of Evelyn's Vapor Marcel Permanents, set in POMPY Coif style.

AROUND THE BEACH

Onmun Daymorn

The bug bit me today. The camera bug, I mean.

For the past week I have been watching people take pictures, pictures of youngsters squatting in the sand beside bright-colored pails, pictures of oldsters dipping cautious toes in Hampton waves; pictures of pretty girls with hair flying in the wind.

Today, I said to myself: if they can, then why can't I? and thereupon bought a camera at Donovan and Fallon's.

My knowledge of photography is nothing to brag about. I know you are supposed to have the sun behind you, hold your breath, snap the shutter down, and after you've taken the picture, you turn the red, black-numbered paper. Beyond that, I know nothing. Time exposures, angle shots, composition—all this I have yet to learn.

I have been content with my plebeian knowledge of photography. It has always served my purpose—pictures of the gang at an outing, family pictures, scenery that captured the eye. To be sure, I have carefully hidden the results of some of my amateur attempts.

Now, camera in hand, I stalked down the boardwalk, searching for quarry. Ah, to find something different, something new, something interesting!

Into the playground I sauntered to take a few pictures of children at play. A small blonde child with a shining face and starched dress caught my eye. She was swinging. Children swinging have always been favorite topics. She obligingly stopped for me, sat quietly, and smiled as I took her picture. I did not attempt to take her swinging for I thought the swaying movement would blur the picture.

The fever crept into my veins, and recklessly I began to take pictures right and left—the elderly couple sitting in the sands holding hands; the boy and girl on the tandem bike; a round-eyed stray kitten playing in the grass; Little Boar's Head; Ginny making faces at me; Ginny posing glamorously on a rock.

Before long my film was gone, and the sun too had disappeared. It looked like rain, so quickly I brought my film to Donovan and Fallon's, and Al promised me prompt service.

I arrived at the hotel just before the rain started to fall. I am waiting, now, anxiously for the morrow to see how my films came out. I hope it's a good day for I want to take more pictures.

Yes, indeed, the bug's bitten me.
