

Tax Rate Up

Tax bills are in the mail to property tax-payers of Hampton it was made known today by Special Auditor Sanford G. York.

The 1945 tax rate is $28 on a thousand, an increase of only $2 over the previous year's rate despite the increase in town officers' and employees' salaries and other appropriations at the Town Meeting in March.

At the same time it was announced that the precinct tax rate would be $4.20 per thousand.

An increase in property valuation of the town and numerous savings in various departments was given as the reason for only a $2 increase. It had been unofficially estimated that the tax rate would be $30 or more.

Enjoy Musical
Show At Hotel

Guests at the Moulton Hotel were recently entertained by a comedy and musical show presented by Jack and Grace McCarthy of Dorchester. About 175 people, guests and friends attended the performance held in the living room of that hotel. The performers, popular on radio and stage, were Jennie Keating, Mildred Fabiani, Fred Harrington, George Del Costello, Happy and Charlotte, Mary McDonald, Helen Page, James Timilty, Kay Stapleton, Mildred Foley and Tom Sullivan, besides the "Aristocrat Quartette." All are vacationing at Hampton Beach.

Outing At Beach

A meeting of the Companions of Foresters of America, including members of the Manchester, Portsmouth, Exeter and Derry circles was held at Hampton Beach on Sunday at the Ashworth Hotel.

Mrs. Laura A. Burke of Manchester presided over the session at which routine business was transacted. Remarks were made by supreme deputy, Mrs. Annie Shaw of Exeter. Plans were made for the visitation of the grand su-

Thousands of free tickets for the Kiwanis Benefit circus now in progress at the golf driving grounds on the Beach road have been given away free to children by town and beach merchants and business places.

Featured in the Big Kiwanis Celebration and the Jay-Cee Hippodrome Shows is Torrelli's famous Dog & Pony Circus, beautiful shetland ponies, acrobatic riding dogs and the screamingly funny monkey will make kids from six to sixty laugh with delight. Comedy is a big feature of this show which is located at the show grounds on beach road, Hampton (Sports Spot).

Clowns have become part of any great circus and the Hippodrome Shows brings to Hampton as one of its features one of America's great producing clowns, Mr. Herb Taylor. Many of the funny stunts that have been seen with the Big Top were invented by this master mind of clown ally. Herb Taylor and his men in white are a sure cure for the blues, selling laughs is their specialty and they are all good salesmen.

This Gala Event is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club to raise money for their charity fund.

Governor Charles M. Dale, governor of the state of New Hampshire and other distinguished members of the state government and Boy Scout executives attended the annual Children's Day at Hampton Beach, Thursday.

Parades, entertainment, refreshments and speeches were held under the guidance of Colonel George Ashworth who founded the event more than 20 years ago.

A luncheon for about 60 guests was served at the Hotel Ashworth at 12:30. Rev. Alan R. Gibbons of Manchester offered invocation.

After the luncheon, there was a parade from the hotel to the Casino where a brief speaking program took place. At the head of the parade were State Police, followed by Hal McDonnell's Hampton Beach band and the Drum corps of the St. Anne's Crusaders of Lawrence, Mass., winners of the Cardinal O'Connell trophy in 1940 and the New England championship in 1941.

Besides children in colorful costumes, carrying flags, there were 200 Boy Scouts from the Daniel Webster council, as well as representatives of the Lone Tree council of Massachusetts Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts.

John W. Hopley of Portsmouth, national committeeman and vice-president of the Daniel Webster council, acted as master of cere-

On Wednesday afternoon, the Hampton Fire Department was called to a fire which started in the rear cushions of a locked car parked on the corner of Ocean Blvd. and Marsh Ave. by the Cosy Corner Cafe. It is believed that the fire which was quickly extinguished started by a lighted cigarette. The car is owned by Myrle A. Pratt of 51 18th street, Haverhill, Mass.

Children's Art On Exhibit At UNH

Durham, N. H., July 25—"Understanding the Child Through Art," an exhibition prepared in collaboration with the Committee on Art in American Education and Society, will be on display in the Arts Division of the Hamilton Smith Library at the University of New Hampshire from July 27 thru August 10.

Presenting the creative expressions of children from the point of view of education and child development, the exhibit is of particular value to teachers, administrators, and parents. It affords a comprehensive and detailed view of art work of children throughout the country as well as development of personality from early childhood through adolescence.

Original drawings, painting, and watercolors will be displayed, as well as photographs of pottery sculptur, and other three dimensional work.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKoun

LT. COMDR. BRYAN

In the afternoon of June 19, 1944, an American scout plane spotted a large contingent of the elusive Japanese fleet and flashed their position. That flash was the signal for all the planes of Task Force 58 to get into action, and in the next few hours followed one of the most dramatic raids of the Pacific.

"Mission Beyond Darkness," by Lt. Comdr. Joseph Bryan and Philip Reed, is the story of those hours, and in particular of the role played by the 64 fliers from Air Group 16. Theirs was an incredibly hazardous assignment. Fuel for the ships of Task Force 58 was running low, and the enemy was outside a safe radius for an attack. Furthermore, the afternoon was so far gone that the returning planes must make carrier landings by night. The particular target which the fliers went after—a large fleet in motion, bristling with guns and containing as prize plums several large carriers—was one to challenge the most daring spirit.

The authors let us in on each moment of suspense: the taking off of the planes; the sighting of the enemy fleet; the fights with the Jap Zekes; the feeling of fatality as enemy fire gets one of our planes and it plunges into the sea. The return journey, into the darkening east, increases rather than relieves the tension, as pilots fight panic at being lost, nerves, fatigue.

When Vice-Admiral Mitscher watched these pilots, he commented: "You know, I'm proud to be an American. Only the finest country in the world could produce boys like these."

The Book-of-the-Month Club selection for September is "The White Tower" by James Ramsey Ullman, a novel about a group of mountaineers in Switzerland.

You've often heard of Chinese "face saving." Here's one story about it. Karl Eskelund, the adventurous author of "My Chinese Wife," was Japanese, invaded Northwest China. Patriotic Chinese students were quick to start a campaign to collect funds for the Chinese troops. One student related how he jumped on the running board of a car and demanded funds of the driver to fight the Japanese aggressors. The driver tried to strike him. "Go to h—," he hissed, "I'm laughed at the story but Eskelund commented he would have struck the Jap. "But don't you see—he made a fool of himself," answered the student. "If I had struck him, I would have made a fool of myself."

Governor Dale brought the greetings of the state and also paid tribute to Colonel Ashworth as long being the symbol of Hampton Beach hospitality. Colonel Ashworth, who last Saturday observed his 77th birthday, was given a big ovation as the children and several thousand spectators joined in singing "Happy Birthday." Rev. Edward A. Anglin, O.S.B., of St. Anselm's College, Manchester, member of the State Planning Board, also spoke briefly. Afterwards there was a drill by the Drum corps under the direction of its instructor, Lionel Paquette. The corps consists of 40 boys between the ages of 11 and 17. There was also a professional entertainer and at its conclusion ice cream and lollypops were distributed free to the children at the John C. White Memorial playground.

Certain tribes in Africa catch snakes and pin them down by the tail with a stake on a run used by wild animals that pass by. They feel it is only dangerous to eat the first animal killed that way and that any subsequent kills are safe.

The military requirements for meat amount to about 24 per cent of the available supply this year in comparison to 16 per cent last year.

Music, Maestro

Even with his back to his music, Mickey, a waterfront character when he is not at sea as a "crew member" of a navy oiler, shows a touch of professional skill as he "leads" a navy band. The band is hauling returning heroes from overseas.

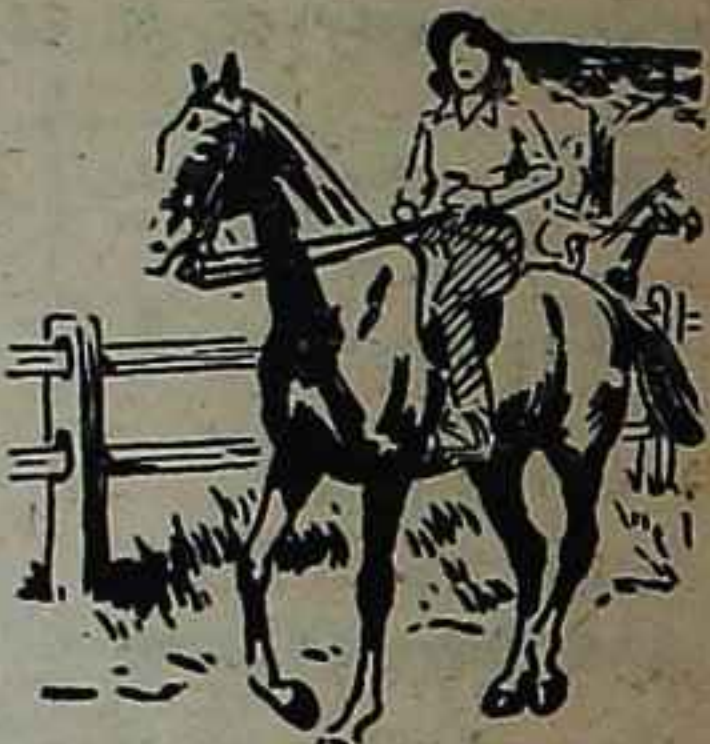

Army is spending his leave at the Roy-Al. He is stationed at Fort Devens, Mass.

Mrs. Francis Keely of New York City, is spending a few weeks at Hampton Beach.

Mrs. Keely was formerly Mrs. Zoe Hobbs Leary, who lived on Mill road, Hampton from 1928-30, with her mother, the late Mrs. Harriet Hobbs Briggs, of Brookline, Mass.

At one time Mrs. Keely taught as substitute teacher at the South School, Rye; the grammar school, Hampton and the Farm Lane School, Seabrook. She was also a member of Oceanside grange.

"Good old Hampton Beach! That's the place for my vacation. Every summer you'll find me... all over the place, joining in the fun, helping everyone to have a good time. I make fast work of cooking, cleaning, washing and ironing so folks spend but little time indoors... and at night, you can see me right on the bright 'mian stem' and in all the gaily lighted places. I'm on the job 24 hours a day, all summer at Hampton."

Big Three Point of Discussion

As new big three prepare for meeting, one of major discussions is expected to concern Russia's future attitude toward Jap war. Several new sources have been commenting on large stores of lend-lease goods from Pacific ports, (1) that have been shipped to Manchuria-Siberian ports, (2) Recent U. S. fleet raids in area of Japanese northernmost outposts attracted particular attention to this area.

James Bucci and son, Raymond and daughter, Elaine were also vacationing at the Seven Gables. The two families have not seen each other for thirty-five years.

Capt. Richard Purington, USA, son of G. F. Puurington, manager of the Casino Market visited here today. Capt. Purington who enlisted in the regular army in September 1940, served with the AAA and as an intelligence officer with the First Division for thirty-four months overseas and only recently arrived home from Czechoslovakia where the famous "Fighting First" is serving as army of occupation. Captain Purington was wounded last August after surviving D-Day without injuries. His wife and child live in Natick, Mass.

Japanese Suicide Boats Foiled

These two Jap suicide boats, captured by Sixth division marines in caves before the Nips could get them into action, are typical of those found during the Okinawa campaign. On the boat in the foreground is chalked the warning "Danger, these boats are booby-trapped."

Bethany Cottage
Has Busy Week

Bethany Cottage camp has been host to several well known members of the Family Welfare Association of Manchester recently. Among those who have visited the camp are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Daniels and daughter, Ann; Atty Robert P. Booth, Dr. Zatie Straw, Mr. F. W. Shontell, president of the Family Welfare Association Board and Mr. N. S. Bean.

Among the many activities at the cottage this week was a treasure hunt on the beach. Unit 4 hid the treasure of candy and the three other units joined in the search. Rachel Privey was the discoverer.

The thirty children picnicked on the beach, Monday and on Thursday enjoyed Children's Day tremendously. The counsellors at Bethany Cottage deeply appreciate the work of Colonel George Ashworth and the Chamber of Commerce for the day devoted to children and their enjoyment.

A council of four has been formed. Representatives from each unit are: Unit I, Dorothy Laporte; Unit II, Pauline Lamontagne; Unit III, Constance Gauthier; and Unit IV, Lorraine Taylor.

On Saturday evening Units one and two were guests of the other units. The Misses Barbara and Cecile Huck were also present. The game room was decorated in a circus motif with orange and green streamers and circus tent cut-outs. Many games were played and refreshments of icecream and cake were served. Winners of the various games were, Barbara Huck, winner of the candy kiss hunt, and of blind man's buff, Rachel Privey, Lorraine Rivet, Mary Currier and Constance Gauthier.

A new group of children are expected this week to vacation at Bethany cottage camp.
