August Prime Month For Vacation Fun

CONCORD, N.H. — What's your pleasure in the good old summertime? You name it and the chances are a lot better than even that New Hampshire can supply it.

No small fraction of the hundreds of thousands of visitors who come to New Hampshire in the summer season are interested in nothing more strenuous than just floating on their backs in a quiet pond, lake, or maybe the blue Atlantic.

At the other end of the scale are those who want to "cut a rug" rather than just sit back and watch the rest of the world go by. For them—the tender in years or young at heart—the "white way" at Hampton Beach is just what the doctor ordered.

The great majority of vacationists, however, go along with the "variety is the spice of life" theory and settle for a happy medium of some rest and relaxation coupled with a modest amount of activity.

Spring and early summer eastern United States too kindly, sunshine or weatherwise. But New Hampshiremen are well aware that if "you like the weather, all you've got to do is wait a minute." And July was on the wane, Old So was acting a lot more as he supposed to.

When that's the case, most people like to take refuge from his potent rays, and New Hampshire, according to the State Planning and Development Commission, offers an unbeatable Shangri-La.

Heavily forested, blessed with some 1,300 lakes and ponds; furrowed with a vast number of streams, large and looming pretty well up into the sky, especially in its upland areas, New Hampshire has the three prime ingredients for comfort during the summer season. They are trees, water and elevation.

While it's true the kids will soon be hearing the school bell ding-donging, there are still a lot of pleasurable pre-school days to be enjoyed in New Hampshire's verdant hills and dales.

Miss New England Contest At Beach Next Tuesday

Originally held during Mardi Gras week, the Miss New England contest will be held this year as a prelude to the giant week of activities at the beach. Chamber of Commerce officials have moved the date forward this year in order to allow Miss New England, as well as Miss Hampton Beach, to participate in the annual beach parade to be held August 19.

Lovely Sandie Kay, Plaistow, who was last year's Miss New England and is this year's Miss Hampton Beach will be on hand to relinquish her crown to the new queen.

Mr. Henry Hamel, promotional director of the Chamber of Commerce, has, at present, 31 beautiful girls registered to take part in the annual event.

All of the New England states are represented except Rhode Island and it is expected that a girl will be entered from that state before contest time. Several of the girls will be back for another try after competing in the Miss Hampton Beach contest. There are also many new entrants which should again make for very difficult judging.

Executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, William Elliot, who will serve as master of ceremonies for the pageant, has announced that the panel of judges will be headed by Dinny Whitmarsh, WBZ-TV news editor. Joining him will be Daniel Martin, manager of Resort Advertising of the Springfield, Mass. newspapers and James Bonnar, general advertising manager of the Hartford Times and New England manager of CONTEST (Continued On Page Ten)

Two Qualify For Talent Show Finals

Several more excellent performances were given Monday night as amateurs displayed their talents during the fifth show of the summer.

Nine year old Geraldine Lyons, outfitted in a complete South American costume, took top honors in the junior division as she sang South American Way. Geraldine is from 362 Lawrence road, Medford, Mass.

A 13 year old Woburn, Mass. boy captured the second place trophy as he sang Mother McCree. Charles lives at 20 Third road.

Gail Harvey, 11, 36 Arlington street, Methuen, Mass. won third place honors after she tied Carol Ann Boselli, Milton, Mass. The exceptionally large crowd gave Miss Harvey the nod as the two top-notch performers were judged for a second time. Gail sang Hey, Look Me Over.

The Senior division first place trophy went to Anne Marie O'Neill, 20, 20 Third road, Woburn, Mass. The pretty Miss O'Neill sang You'll Never Walk Alone beautifully.

VIEWING ONE OF THE FINAL PERFORMANCES FROM THE FAMED HAMPTON BEACH BANDSTAND is this capacity crowd which viewed the talent show Monday evening. Slated for top priority in Governor Wesley Powell's stepped up recreational facilities improvement program, if and when it receives final approval, is a new beach front at Hampton Beach. Should the project be carried out, the bandstand will be one of the first buildings demolished. —Staff Photo

Miss Coast Guard To Enter Miss N.E. Contest At Beach

Miss Su-Su Smith, 21, New-ton Upper Falls, Mass. was crowned Miss Coast Guard 1961 Thursday evening at the U. S. Coast Guard anniversary ball in the Newburyport, Mass., armory.
Miss Smith, second place runner-up in the recent Miss Hampton Beach contest, won from over 26 girls representing communities in New Hampshire and Massachusetts at the 152nd anniversary ball. The contest was part of the annual Yankee Homecoming celebration in Newburyport.

Miss Smith is a student at the Fashion and TV Model school in Boston, Mass. She was second runner-up in the Miss Massachusetts contest recently.
Rear Admiral Chester L. Harding, USCG, bestowed a kiss on and congratulated the winner. He later led the group in the traditional grand march. The new Miss Coast Guard was crowned by Miss Priscilla Smith, East Kingston, Miss Coast Guard of 1960. Also present for the occasion were Miss Joan Chesleigh, Hampstead, 1959 winner and another finalist in the Miss Hampton Beach pageant in past years.

Both the winner, Miss Su-Su Smith and last year's winner, Miss Priscilla Smith are expected to be contestants in this year's Miss New England contest next week at the Casino ballroom.

SUE HESSE is appearing at the Hampton Playhouse in its first musical, "The Boy Friend".

A DAY AT HAMPTON BEACH

We went down to the beach today and so did everyone else. The tide rolled out, the birds came in, and so did everyone else.
We went hunting for clams and shells and sand-dollars, which weren't a cent.
The sand was clean, the water clear, the waves rolled on and on.
The surf was mild, the sky was clear and the people came from everywhere.
The beach was full of bathers, the sun and water bright.
Lifeguards roamed both far and near, rescue units were alert.
Beyond the boardwalk, the Casino crowds were enjoying their kind of recreation.
Souvenir stands were selling their share of novelties, landlords were renting rooms and food merchants were selling their wares.

Great Boars Head was visible in the distance, while planes droned overhead.
We went down to the beach today and returned, pleased with a day well spent.

Musical Comedy Hit
On Playhouse Stage

When the Hampton Playhouse current attraction, "THE BOY FRIEND", first became a hit in London and then in New York, theatergoers who were delighted with its droll take-offs on the wanton musical comedies of the 1920's, wondered how so sharp a spoof of the flapper age could have been written by a man so young that he could only see it through the bars of a play-pen.

"THE BOY FRIEND" is a tuneful and gentle travesty of the period of the cloche hat, spoonkin coats, dresses with the belts at the knees, the Charleston, the "devil-may-care" attitude and the Stutz Bearcat.
Starring in the two-lead roles are Sue Hesse as "Polly" and John Vari as "Tony". Audiences will recognize Lucy Landau as "Lady Brockhurst" and enjoy the grimaces of Ian Sullivan of Boston as "Bobby".
The music for this first endeavor, is performed by Ernest Murphy, the musical director, on the piano, and Ralph Barbagallo who does an outstanding job of beating out those rhythms on a drum.
Ralph, a local boy from Lawrence, Mass., has played in many of the better night spots in Haverhill and Salisbury.

The title role is played by that remarkably-talented young star, the blonde and beautiful Sandra Dee, as lovable a hair-braided little gal as has ever been seen on both land and water. Sandra's co-star is the tall, dark and very handsome John Gavin, who is rapidly emerging as one of Hollywood's foremost leading men.

"Tammy Tell Me True," a Ross Hunter production for Universal-International, is that studio's sequel to their outstandingly successful "Tammy and the Bachelor," and the new picture, in color, recreates on the screen the heart-warming Tammy characterization which captivated audiences the world over.

Unique Post Card Display
Features Beach Bandstand

Mr. Richard H. Schubert, 45 High street, Amherst, Mass., a hobby specialist in post cards and stereo views, has recently put many of his cards on display at the Chamber of Commerce office.
Mr. Schubert who has been collecting post cards for twelve years has on display post cards showing 62 different views of the bandstand at Hampton Beach. Of particular interest to Hampton residents as well as long-time beach vacationers is the post card dated May 19, 1898, Mr. Schubert's oldest card.
In this particular showing, Mr. Schubert has concentrated specifically on the beach bandstand. However, he has many hundreds of other cards of various places of interest which he has displayed around New England. For instance, he recently displayed 800 views of Alaska in the Holyoke, Mass., library when Alaska became a state.
Mr. and Mrs. Schubert are vacationing at the beach and are staying at the Elizabeth on J. street. They have been to the beach many times in the past but this is their first complete vacation at Hampton Beach.

Top Talent Show Winners Qualify For Season Finals

(Continued from Page One) The trio came from Methuen, Mass. The final award of the evening went to two local girls, Bea and Lona Stadig, Hutchinson drive, Hampton. They sang Just Because as they accompanied themselves on guitars.

The two top winners, Geraldine Lyons and Anne O'Neill will join with other top winners of the season in the final talent show of the summer the latter part of August to determine the grand prize winner for the entire season. With talent as keen as it has been to date this summer, the final competition is rapidly shaping up to be a show well worth attending.

John Langdon of Portsmouth was the first presiding officer of the United States.

Contest -
Gannet newspapers. The names of the other judges will be released later this week. The system of judging used is based on a modified point system similar to that used in the Miss Universe and Miss America contests. Judging is for poise, personality and beauty. The winner will receive a $100 savings bond along with flowers, crown, and a beautiful trophy. Second and third place winners will also receive savings bonds.
The names of the girls who have entered the contest as of BEACHCOMBER press time are as follows: Alice A. Green, 19, Winchester, Mass., Ruth-Ann Louise Fox, 18, Dracut, Mass., Susan C. Smith, 17, Somerville, Mass., Guistina Ravasini, 18, Somerville, Mass.,

Mary Ann Filteau, 21, Medford, Mass., Carol Martin, 18, Hampton, N.H., Carole Hodge, 18, Newburyport, Mass., Sharon Ann Warner, 20, Orange, Mass., June D'Duzak, 18, Hartford, Conn., Brenda Joyce Packor, 17, Nashua, N.H., Joyce Porcella, 18, Framingham, Mass., Alma Ann White, 16, Marlboro, Mass., Jeanne DeWitt, 19, Eliot, Maine, Gayle Ellen Wackell, 19, Worcester, Mass., Florence Haring, 17, Billerica, Mass., Margaret F. Harkins, 17, Waltham, Mass., Helen B. George, 20, Three Rivers, Mass., Jeanette Ring, 18, Hampton, N.H., Barbara Tarrisi, 18, Lawrence, Mass., Sylvia Gustavson, 19, Winchester, Mass., Terry Latchie, 18, Coral Gables, Florida, Priscilla Smith, 19, East Kingston, N.H., Maris Lane, 23, Dorchester, Mass., Mardi Sue Mannesa, 16, Epping, N.H., Bobbie Wilker, 16, Haverhill, Mass., Barbara Warner, 16, Hampton, N.H., Jonnye McLeod, 16, Hampton, N.H., Donna M. Graham, 18, Manchester, N.H., Ruth Quinlan, 18, Barr, Vt., Louise A. Richardson, 16, Georgetown, Mass., Judith A. Zedalis, 20, Nashua, N.H.

Of particular interest in this year's contest is the fact that there are four local girls entered from Hampton and Hampton Beach, which is more than at any one time since the contest has been in existence. The four girls who took the runner-up positions in the Miss Hampton Beach contest are entered expected to enter the Miss New England contest, considered locally as second only to the Miss Hampton Beach title.

TV STAR Charlie Weaver, (right) Cliff Arquette in real life made a surprise appearance at the Hampton Playhouse this week. His son, Michael LeMay, will be in the cast of "Sweet Bird of Youth" next week.

Charlie Weaver Playhouse Visitor

During Tuesday evening's performance of "The Boy-friend" at Hampton Playhouse, the audience and cast alike were surprised when Cliff Arquette, the famous "Charlie Weaver", appeared on stage as the waiter in the third act of the musical comedy currently being presented.

Mr. Arquette is visiting in this area this week with his son, Michael LeMay, who will be playing in next week's production, "Sweet Bird of Youth" and in following play's throughout the season. In a recent appearance as "Charlie Weaver" on the Jack Paar show, the noted comedian gave a great publicity boost to the Hampton Playhouse by announcing that his son was at that time appearing here in the production of "Suzie Wong".

Following the performance Tuesday evening, Mr. Arquette cordially greeted the members of the audience as they assembled on the lawn to meet him personally. Thereafter, he and all members of the Hampton Playhouse management and cast were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Kenney, 210 Landing road.

Coast Guard Crews Assist Seven Craft

The Coast Guard was kept busy this past week with a variety of calls being logged at the Hampton Beach station.

Smith and Gilmore fishing service notified the Coast Guard at 8:25 p.m. last Wednesday that a small skiff with four persons aboard was overdue.

Chief Richard Crowley, BM2 Clarence O'Neil and SN Harold Beal located the skiff within the harbor. A sudden thunder storm and fog had prevented the group from locating the marina. The lost skiff was operated by John Monset, 16 Farley street, Methuen, Mass.

Also on Wednesday, the fishing boat Gull notified the Hampton Beach station at 1:15 p.m. that a 14-foot outboard motor boat, owned by Smith and Gilmore, was disabled in Hampton harbor. The boat, with four persons aboard, was returned to the Smith and Gilmore pier by the Coast Guard.

At 4:15 p.m., also on Wednesday,

Abbot Drake, Rye Beach, notified the Coast Guard station that he had seen a green flare fired from a motor boat off Rye Beach.

The 30-foot rescue boat out of Hampton, under BN2 Clarence O'Neil, located the disabled boat owned and operated by Frank J. DeCassar, 519 Prospect street, Methuen, Mass. The boat was towed to Rye harbor.

Sunday, Coast Guardsmen transferred a father and son from a party fishing boat, Annie and Josephine, after they were notified of death in the family. George Stank and his son, Bruce, of Clinton, Mass., were put ashore at the state pier after Coast Guardsmen responded to the 10:15 call.

A 32-foot cabin cruiser and a 29-foot inboard cruiser were towed to the state pier by the Coast Guard after developing minor engine trouble.

A boat owned by Robert Wissinger, Hampton road, Exeter was towed to Rye harbor after developing trouble. The craft had been sending distress signals which Ed Herson, Rye Beach, heard at 8:30. He notified the Coast Guard but before they could arrive on the scene, Leon Mowry of Rye notified them that he had the craft in tow.

Policeman's Ball

The Police Relief Association's second annual ball was attended by more than 500 persons at the Casino Ballroom.

John O'Connell, president of the group, welcomed the members and guests on behalf of the police departments of Hampton, North Hampton and Hampton Falls.

Committee members for the ball were George Pierson, tickets, William Doyle, secretary-treasurer, William Jackson, program, Roland Barnaby, Andrew Maguire and Joseph Robinson, editor of the program and Sgts. Paul Leavitt and Jon Lovejoy, general chairmen.

Bay State Girl Wins N.E. Title

From an array of 32 outstandingly attractive contestants, Miss Sylvia Gustavson, 19, of Massachusetts, was crowned Miss New England at the beauty pageant Tuesday evening at the Casino.

A lovely 5'7" blonde, 34-21-34, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Gustavson of Winchester, Mass., and was sponsored in the contest by Roy Parsons and Son of Hampton.

Having placed second in the Miss Hampton Beach contest several weeks ago, she was again one of the favorites of the audience each time she appeared on stage, wearing an attractive white silk jersey bathing suit which accented her lovely tan skin and beautiful blonde hair. Miss Gustavson will be a sophomore at Jackson College, Medford, Mass., this year, majoring in elementary education.

For the first time, two Hampton girls were among the five finalists in one of these Miss New England contests. Miss Jonnye McLeod, 16, who was named Miss Personality and was a finalist in the Miss Hampton Beach contest, and Miss Barbara Warner, 16, were each given acclaim for their beauty by the audience and judges. Both girls will be seniors at Winnacunnet High school this year.

First runner-up to the queen was Miss Su Su Smith, 21, Newton Upper Falls, Mass., who was crowned Miss Coast Guard two weeks ago in Newburyport and was third place winner in the Miss Hampton Beach contest this year. A professional model, working in Boston and New York, she is a 5'7" beauty, 37-24-37, and was sponsored by the Casino Ballroom.

Third place winner was another Massachusetts girl, Miss Louise Ann Richardson, 16, of Georgetown. She is a 5'4", 35-24-35, dark-haired beauty and was wearing a bright red knitted suit which accented her attractive features. A senior in high school this year, she hopes to attend a New England college after graduation.

Mr. William Elliot, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, serving as master of ceremonies, introduced each of the contestants as they appeared individually for parade before the judges. Music throughout the evening was provided by the Ted Hebert band and a feature trumpet solo by young Scott Philbrick of Newburyport was a highlight during one of the intermissions.

Using the point system after the first round of elimination, the scoring was so close on the tally cards of the judges that the well-qualified judges included James V. Bonner, general
