Old Salts Catch Cod

Codfish were running heavy during the past week and most of the catches made by new members of the Old Salts club were good sized cod.

Heading the list of newest members was John Hondrellis, Windham Depot road, Derry. John pulled in a 50-lb. cod while fishing from the Ric Roc, an Al Gauron craft operating out of the state pier and captained by Capt. Bill Mahoney.

Bruce Chamberlaine, 13, Chesham, caught a 20-lb. cod. He, too, was fishing from the Ric Roc and his catch was certified by officials at the Al Gauron pier.

Mrs. Barney Churest, 288 Biles street, Lewiston, Maine, hooked a 20-lb. codfish and qualified when her catch was certified by an Al Gauron official.

Edward Stanton, while fishing aboard a Smith and Gilmore party boat, landed an 8-lb. haddock. Edward resides at 50 Cottage street, Newton, Mass.

Gerald Basnar, 317 Merrimack street, Manchester, landed a 28½-lb. codfish while fishing from a Smith and Gilmore party boat. Also fishing from a Smith and Gilmore craft was Dr. Theodore A. Kanes, 126 Front street, Bath, Maine. He qualified with a catch of a 5-lb. haddock.

Also qualifying with a catch of a 50-lb. haddock was Jean Kyroax, 5 Quimby St., Haverhill, Mass. The catch was made from a Smith and Gilmore party boat.

Mrs. Sally Michaud, 7 Morgan street, Nashua pulled in a 10½-lb. codfish to qualify while fishing from a Smith and Gilmore craft.

Felix Oliver Paradis, 45 Haines street, Nashua caught a 4½-lb. haddock while fishing from the Ric Roc, an Al Gauron craft.

Any person may become a member of the non-meeting Old Salts club by hauling in one of the fish as listed at either of the Hampton River fishing piers or at the chamber of commerce. The catches must be sanctioned by the officials at one or the other of the piers.

Sheila Scott Wins Miss Hampton Beach

Miss Sheila Theresa Scott of 12 K Street, Hampton Beach, became Miss Hampton Beach of 1964 Tuesday evening at the Casino Ballroom before a large, enthusiastic audience which filled the hall to near capacity.

Miss Scott became the fourth consecutive New Hampshire girl to cop the crown and only the second Hampton girl to take first place honors since the series was renewed. This was the 17th annual contest.

Sheila, sponsored by the Somerset Lodge, is a 16 year old Winnacunnet High School senior. The young beauty is 5 ft. 2 in. tall, weighs 115-lbs., and her vital statistics read 34-24-36. She is a talented vocalist and is currently the defending champion of the Senior Division of the weekly beach talent shows having grand honors in August of 1963.

The first runner-up in the contest was Miss Frances Houlihan of Seabrook, present holder of the Miss New England title. Fran, sponsored by the Tides Hotel, also placed second last year in the Miss Hampton Beach contest. Also a senior at Winnacunnet High, Fran is 17 years old, weighs 110-lbs., is 5 ft. 4 in. tall, and has statistics of 34-23-34.

Placing third in the contest of 38 girls was Frances Janes, 18, of 23 Red Rock Street, Lynn, Mass. Weighing 114-lbs., 5 ft. 5 in. tall, and measuring 35-22-34 her vivacious personality easily won her the third spot.

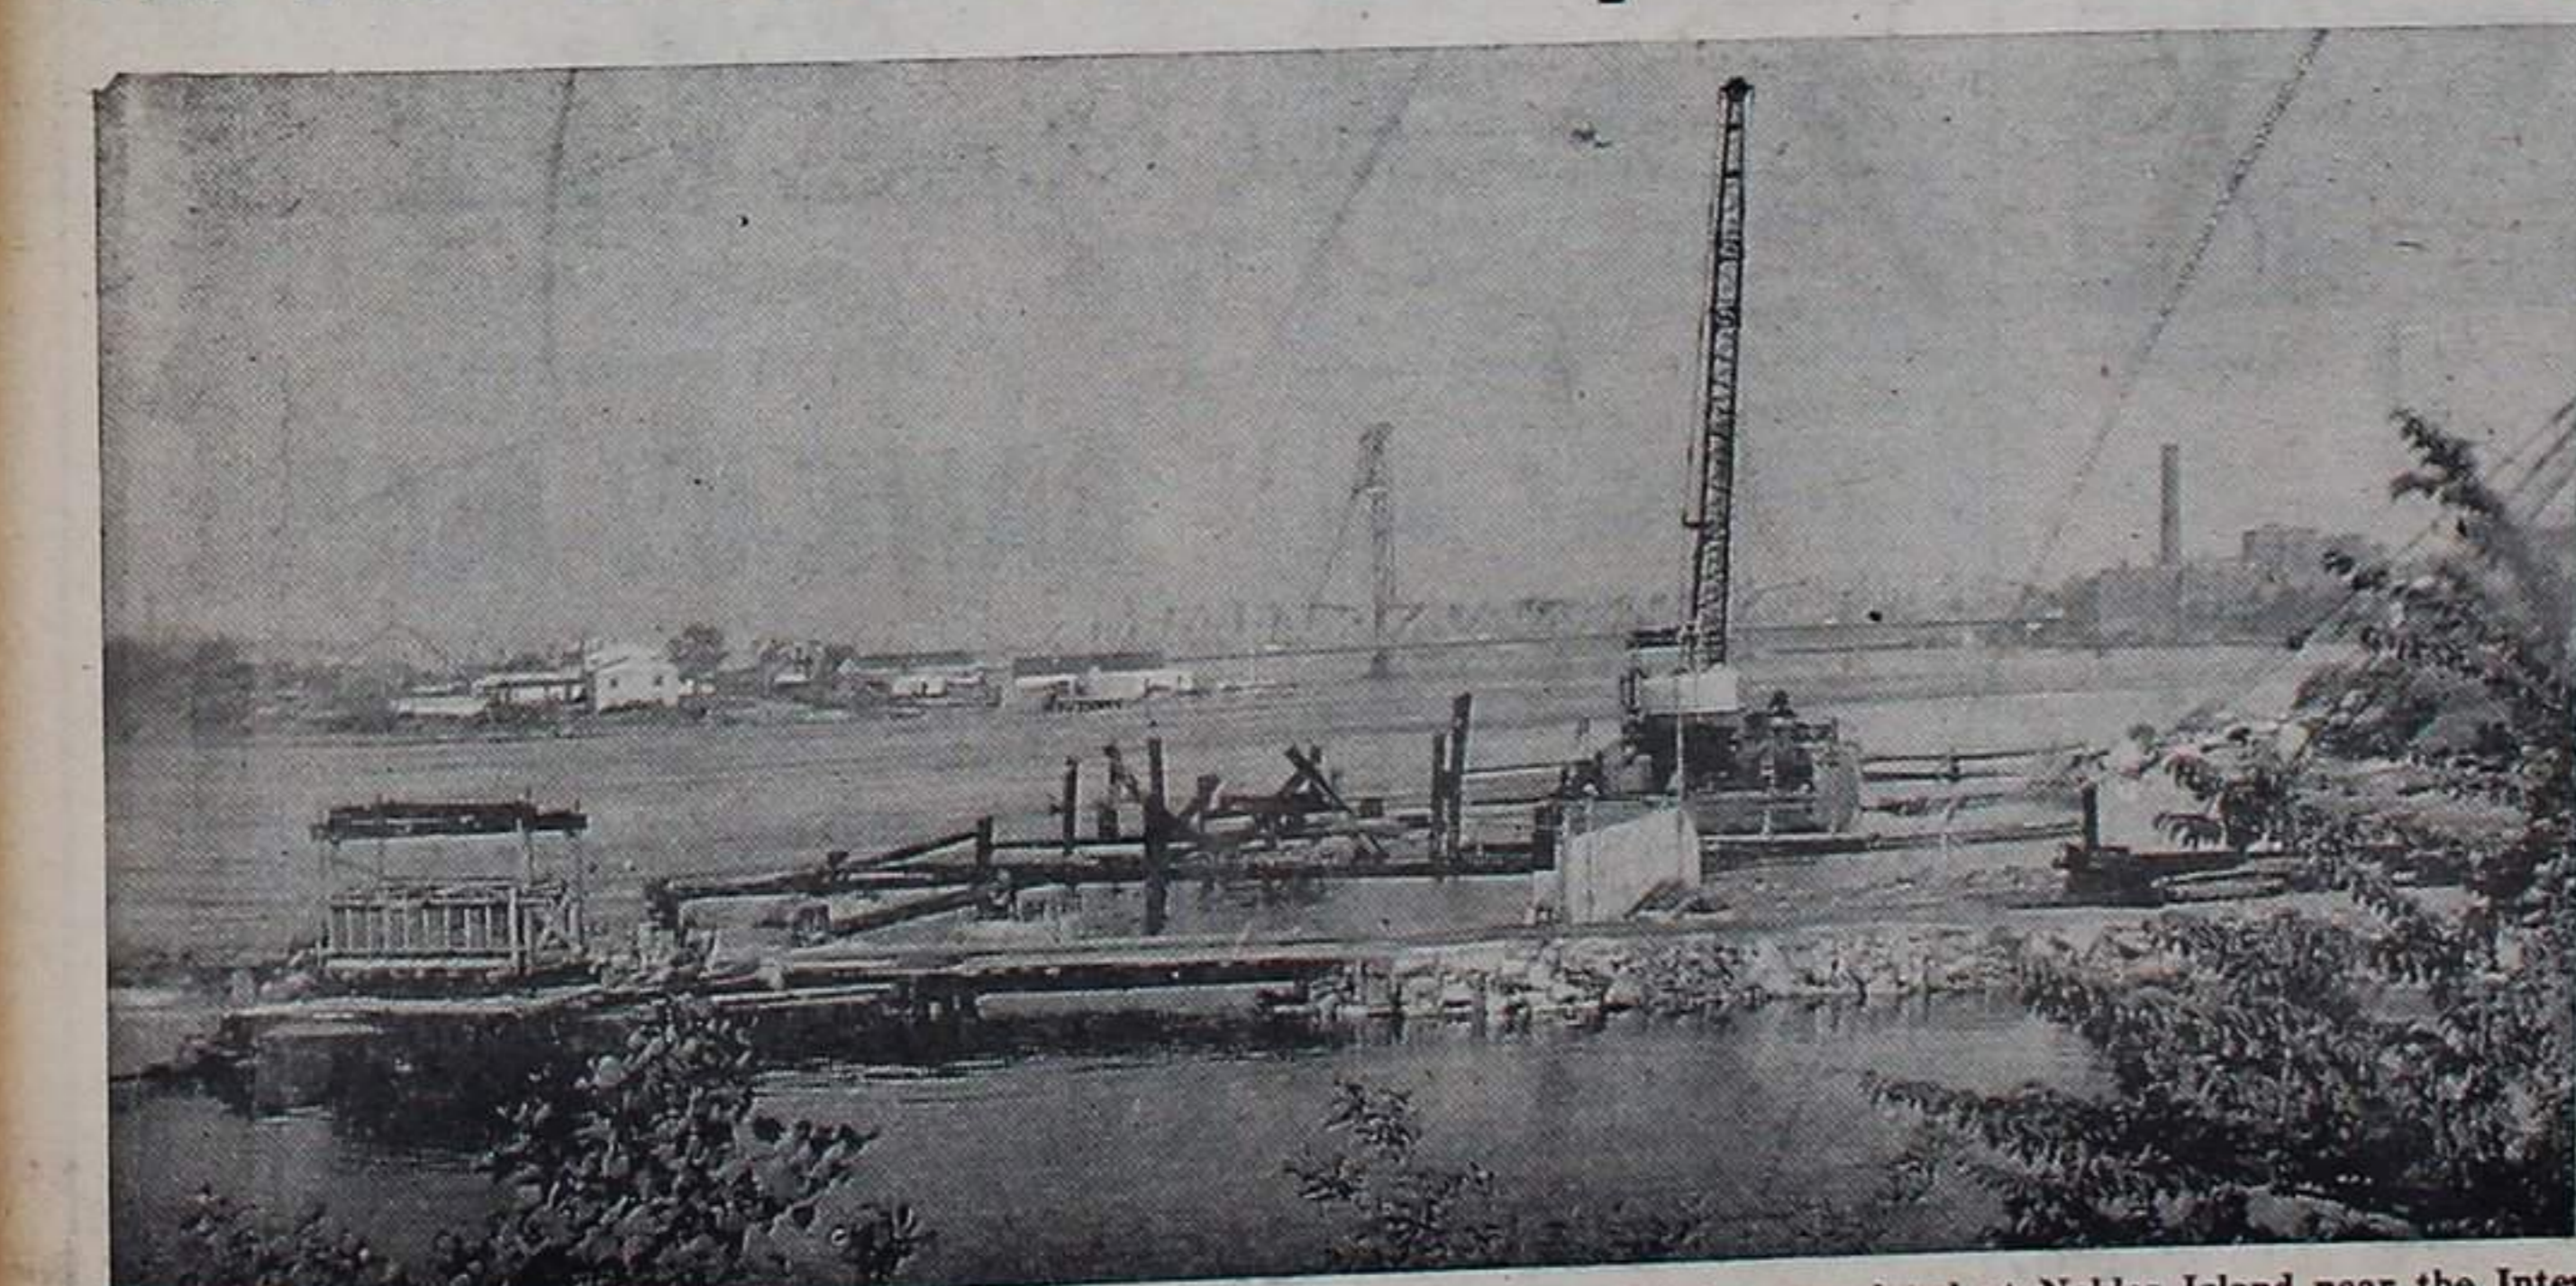

Mr. William Elliot, executive secretary of the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce served as the master of ceremonies during the gala competition. He introduced the judges, Stanley Selib, the New England manager of the Miss Universe contest; Mr. John Vari, distinguished TV and stage actor and owner of the Hampton Playhouse; Arnold Parklow, New England

N. H. Port Authority Work Progressing

Work is progressing rapidly on the new N.H. State Port Authority docking facilities at Nobles Island but Authority directors are still trying to interest Central New England and Northern New York companies in the facility.

Eugene Soles, Port Authority Chairman, said recently that dedication ceremonies are planned for the early Fall but many who might make use of the docking facilities are taking a wait and see attitude.

When completed, the dock will serve ships carrying fuel, bulk cargo and containerized cargo.

THE N. H. PORT AUTHORITY docking facilities are still in the process of being completed at Nobles Island near the Interstate Bridge in Portsmouth. The project began in 1961. Staff Photo by Randall

 Mr. Elliot also introduced many local officials including John Dineen, ballroom owner; Joseph Flynn, president of the local chamber of commerce; Henry Hamel, production manager for the chamber; Wayne Elliot, Hampton Publishing Co., and Richard Chevalier, manager of Warren's Supermarkets who tabulated the votes.
 Miss Jonnye McLeod, a past Miss Hampton Beach and former holder of the Miss Portsmouth title and Miss New Hampshire for the Miss Universe spoke briefly wishing Miss Beverly Hebert, the 1983 titleholder, luck in her participation in the Miss U.S.A. contest now underway in Miami, Florida. Miss Hebert, a Manchester beauty, is the 11th girl in the past 14 years to compete in national competition following the Miss Hampton Beach contest.
 Miss Scott, meanwhile, amassed a total of 67 out of 100 possible points after the judges went onto the point system. This was the third highest accumulation of points by a winner in the history of the contest. Meanwhile, not a point was scored against her in the elimination rounds. Only Sandra Kaye and Jonnye McLeod accumulated more points.
 The selection of Miss Scott as Miss Hampton Beach 1984 as the concert band led by Stan Bednarz played background music was followed by a crowning ceremony in which Jay Dineen and many runners-up participated. Jonnye placed a sparkling crown on each girl and the 1984 sash on Sheila Scott. The girls each received a savings bond and a trophy.

 Hampton area residents could feel justly proud last evening with two area girls placing in the top two spots. Other local lovelies participating were Janice Edna Palmer, Marcia Butler and Sandra Severance from Hampton and Lynn DeBenedictis of Hampton Falls.

Strawbery Banke Planning Hugh Five Day Festival

PORTSMOUTH — Like to eat strawberries? If you do, come to old Strawbery Banke on August 1, and get your fill. And while you're at it, get here earlier so you can have a peek at the early stages of restoration of an old colonial village, itself known, more than 100 years ago, as Strawbery Banke.

More than that there'll be a chance to visit a large sailing vessel, the three-masted Norwegian mast, Statsraad Lehmann; to watch a sailing race and even just relax in a quiet old New England seaport. All of these events are part of a five-day program known as the Strawbery Banke Festival, which begins July 28.

As for the strawberries mentioned before, they're going to be served under a tent in the Strawbery Banke restoration area itself on Saturday, August 1.

Earlier in the day the visitor will be able to participate in a program honoring those men who dared defy an English king 198 years ago.

But in the days of royal rule, taxes were loaded on the people without any consent on their part, and one such tax was the Stamp Act, passed by the British Parliament in 1765.

Portsmouth, along with all other colonial towns, liked it not, and protested bitterly. That the protests were finally heard in England and the act repealed are facts in our history books.

The celebration that took place here was a tumultuous one, culminating in the flying of a Liberty Flag from a pole on old Swing Bridge across Puddle Dock in Strawbery Banke.

On Saturday, August 1, a Stamp Flag will once again fly from the Liberty Pole, which stands in much the same location as the one used in 1765.

That ceremony is scheduled to start about 2 p.m. when a parade — perhaps a little like the one staged nearly 200 years ago — is formed in Market Sq. The leading musical element will be the Linn Village Colonial Drum Band and participants will be the Strawbery Banke Belles and units of the Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

When the parade arrives at the Liberty Pole and takes position there, a company from the Theatre by the Sea will re-enact the famous coffin scene from Portsmouth's Stamp Act story.

The original coffin was shouldered through the streets of the town with placards announcing the death of Liberty because of the oppressive Stamp Act. When the "pallbearers" put down their burden at the base of the pole on old Swing Bridge, they discovered life in the "dead corpse" of liberty, symbolic of the repeal of the act.

A replica of the "No Stamp" flag will be flown from the Liberty Pole, which is the 3rd pole in direct descent from the original used by the irate Portsmouth residents of two centuries ago.

While the Stamp Act parade might be considered a climax to the day's program, visitors will find plenty to amuse them throughout the day. At 10 a.m. the Whaleback Ocean Race is to start and once the sailing craft are well on their courses, nine of the future exhibition houses in Strawbery Banke will be open to the public.

Here, with official Strawbery Banke guides, the visitor will be able to see demonstrations of such crafts as pottery, silversmithing, weaving, rug making.

Five Area Men At Annapolis

Five members of the local Naval Reserve Training Center will be sworn in today as Midshipman at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. They are Thomas A. Colbourn of 283 Middle St., Portsmouth; Raymond A. Kellett of 4 1/2 Lincoln St., Sanford, Maine; Stephen D. Parker of 726 Middle St., Portsmouth; Sidney D. Emery, Jr. of 7 Howard St., Springvale; and James M. Hogan of 62 High St., Exeter. Colbourn, Kellett and Parker are former members of Submarine Division 1-34, Emery and Hogan are former members of Sea-Bee Division 1-2.

Completing their Plebe year, and receiving the shoulder boards of Midshipman Third Class were Paul R. McConnell of 100 Parsons road, Rye and Alan A. Laraway of 94 Highland St., Portsmouth, who were former members of Submarine Division 1-34. They are now on their Midshipman summer training cruise and touring several European ports on board Destroyers of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet. This makes a total of 7 men who have been accepted by the U. S. Naval Academy, over the past two years who are former members of Naval Reserve Divisions at the U. S. Naval Training Center, here in Portsmouth.

Chuckle Of The Month

Governor King could have made his recent visit to the new Wallis Sands State Park more amusing by having John Pillsbury pose with him on the seashore.

The Wallis Sands State Park and all the other recreational improvements involving state property along the shore, plus the Port Authority development at Portsmouth, are accomplishments of the Republican administration of Governor Powell.

The ten million dollar bond issue which has made possible the precedent shattering improvements in summer and winter recreational facilities throughout the Granite State was sponsored by Governor Powell. It was bitterly fought by King and Pillsbury who were playing footsie as members of the legislature. In the dead of the last night of the 1961 session of the legislature King and Pillsbury almost succeeded in scuttling this needed and fine program of progress.

Had Republican Pillsbury not been playing footsie with Democrat King in the 1961 legislature, the Republican Party and Pillsbury could have won out in the 1962 elections. As it was, many Republicans felt that it would be easier to remove a do-nothing Democrat in 1964 than to unload the do-nothing Republican Old Guard again. Powell had the whip the Old Guard in order to get New Hampshire moving.

Bill Elliot Sang, Tots Danced At World's Fair

Old fashioned bathing suits, spangled costumes, and greetings and songs by an ex-cop brought the message of Hampton Beach to the New York World's Fair last week.

Friday (July 17) was Hampton Beach Day at the New England States Exhibition. It was a hot and muggy day but neither heat nor mugginess could stay Fairgoers from gathering on New England's Village Green to hear and watch Hampton Beach's array of talent.

William Elliot a former policeman and now executive secretary of the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce, led off both two-hour programs with a community sing. With a hand mike, he wandered through the audience, picking up the harmonizing voices of three girls sitting.

Baby Biting Seal Rescued By Officer Roger Smith

North Hampton police assisted in having a baby seal patched up and put back to sea last weekend.

Officer Roger Smith, on duty Saturday, received a call that a visitor to the Little Boar's Head area of North Hampton beach had found a seal wedged between some rocks off Little Boar's Head. The seal was freed and brought to shore by the unidentified person.

The seal had a cut on its stomach and was taken to the North Hampton offices of Dr. Eric Simmons. Dr. Simmons stitched the wound. Officer Smith and Chief Ralph O'Connor then removed the seal to the Lafayette road home of the Smiths where it recuperated for a brief time in a tub of fresh sea water.

The seal, a beautiful silvery, blue in color, attracted considerable attention among the small fry and grown ups alike. It seemed to like the petting it received along with the back scratching, but any hands that went near its mouth go a sample of quick snapping jaws.

Raymond Celebrates 200 Year History

The town of Raymond was incorporated in May 1764 and the first town meeting was held on the 24th of that month in the oldest house in town, Benjamin Bean's Inn, now the home of Harry C. Pierce. Raymond had been part of Chester but the people wanted their own representative in the General Court. After the big fire in December of 1882, which destroyed nearly half the town, the volunteer fire department was started. A water department was also started at that time to give better fire protection and for drinking water.

Young Singer, Dancers Win Beach Talent Show

A talented vocalist and a young song and dance duo coped the weekly talent show Monday evening at the Sea Shell stage.

Only two participants took part in the Senior Division competition with Kathleen Henry, 44 Beaconsfield Road, Worcester, Mass., 15, emerging victorious. She took the top trophy with her rendition of "Moon River."

The second place trophy went to Elizabeth Egan, 15, 366 Main Street, Saugus, Mass. Elizabeth did a tap dance routine to "The Sheik" and "Three O'clock in the Morning." She completed her performance with a blind folded jump roping act.

Three and four year old Lisa Beth Chandler and her brother Michael won their way into the hearts of the exceptionally large Monday evening audience with their version of "Me and My Shadow." The youngsters opened and closed their act with a song and in between danced. Complete with top hat and tails, the two Lowell, Mass. youths walked off with the top trophy in the Junior Division.

Donna Jean Gibson, 10, 8 Herold Road, West Peabody, Mass. awarded the second place trophy after she won by singing "A Wonderful Guy."

Suzanne Drew of 230 Elm Street, Amesbury, Mass., placed third and was presented a box of candy from Margaret Junkins Candy Store. She played "Crazy Days of Summer" on the organ.

Lollipops went to all those who didn't place in the top three spots. They included Barbara Paul, 10, Springfield, Mass.; Madelyn Lynch, 12, Medford, Mass.; Christine Brady, 13, Tewksbury, Mass.; Bonnie and Allen Hardiman, 8 and 9, Beverly, Mass.; Anne Marie Messier, 11, Springfield, Mass.; Susannah Tolien, 11, Dracut, Mass.; Robert William Walsh, 10, Exeter; and Sheila Marie Henderson, 9, Hyde Park.

Beach Seaweed Requires Dozers

Seaweed is becoming one of Hampton Beach's major problems. Tides and storms stir up the seaweed beds at Plaice Cove and Great Boar's Head and the currents carry the suspended sea growth on to the beaches.

As recently as last Saturday morning, the town had to hire three bulldozers at $10 per hour to bury the seaweed, Town Manager Kenneth Boehner said Monday.

Boehner explained that the town is planning an experiment after Labor Day in which the seaweed will be transported to North Side Park, near Plaice Cove, and will be used as fill, later to be covered with grass.

Seaweed has become more of a problem since farmers stopped using it as fertilizer. In the past, seaweed was so valuable that state law protected it for the farmers use. Although the law is still in effect, Boehner said anyone who wished to take some for use on their family garden or lawn would be free to do so.

Kingston Repbs. Plan Barbecue

The Kingston Regional Women's Club is planning a "Meet the Candidates" barbecue on the Kingston Plains at noon on August 1.

Committee members include Mrs. Nettie Kemp, Mrs. Ruth Sampson, Mrs. Phyllis Bartlett, and Mrs. Mary Hicks of Brentwood.

Also Miss Esther Morrison of Newton, Mrs. Alice Marston, Mrs. Marion Bakie, Mrs. Doris Smith and Mrs. Martha Long of Kingston.

In case of rain, the barbecue will be held in the Kingston Town Hall.

MR. & MRS. VOTER

Today the office of County Commissioner requires full time. Our budget is now over one million dollars.

The County Home has grown to a population of over 300. The heavy Relief load and the building of a new County Court House demands a lot of the Commissioner's time. After serving you 14 years, I am again asking for your support at the Primaries September 8th.

I have the time and the experience to fill this job. My record is open for your inspection. Your Vote will be Greatly Appreciated.

Life Guard Jim Morrison Rescues Six Persons

Six persons including an unconscious 11-year-old Lawrence, Mass. youth were assisted to safety by Jim Morrison, a five year life guard at Hampton Beach, last Wednesday, July 15.

Assigned to the Seabrook Beach side of Hampton River, Jim witnessed Alfred Hewett, 18 Odile street, caught in the rip tide currents off the rocks near the beach. Although only approximately 15 feet off the rocks, the veteran guard said he could not reach the youth quick enough that way so he had to swim approximately 125 feet.

When Guard Morrison reached Hewett, the youth was unconscious. Morrison pulled the boy to safety and immediately rendered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He was taken to the Exeter Hospital for treatment.

Meanwhile, Morrison observed five other persons caught in nearly the same spot. He assisted in bringing all of them to safety for one of the most dramatic rescues at Hampton Beach in some time. Beach in some time.

had high praise this week for Morrison who has worked under him for five seasons at the beach. Jim has completed two years of studies at Los Angeles City College where he is majoring in physical education.

His residence is Lawrence, Mass.

1st Junior Livestock Show In Plymouth

PLYMOUTH.—New Hampshire's first state-wide Junior Livestock Show, the largest in history, has been set for the State Fair Grounds here August 20-23.

Over 1,500 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members are eligible to compete for ribbons, trophies and cash awards during the classic four-day event.

Prizes will be presented to both fitting and showmanship and type competition winners in dairy, beef, horse, swine and sheep classes.

The king-sized contest is sponsored by Plymouth Fair Association in conjunction with the county and state staffs of the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of N. H.

Entries are due in the office of the show superintendent, Kevin B. Kennedy, Grafton County Extension Service, Woodsville, by August 1. Entry blanks are available at county Cooperative Extension Service offices in the State's 10 counties.

The opening day will feature a horse show and horse and beef fitting and showmanship judging. Beef and swine type classes and dairy fitting and showmanship are other attractions.

Horse and dairy type classes will be held August 21. The annual state dairy judging contest terminating in an evening banquet will be held on August 22 as will senior and junior sheep fitting and showing.

Final events will include sheep type classes and a parade of breeds on Sunday, August 23.

Wallace Stuart In Venezuela, Works, Lives With Farm Families

(Editor's note: This is the second letter to New Hampshire residents written in Venezuela, South America, by Wallace S. Stuart of Stratham, 194 International Farm Youth Exchange delegate. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Stuart, he will return this fall for a state-wide series of illustrated public talks. The I. F. Y. E. program is sponsored by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, the National 4-H Club Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of New Hampshire. I. F. Y. E.'s are charged with seeking to increase international understanding.)

past two months of Venezuelan farm life.

May was a month of much leisure time spent in the mountainous North Central State of Carabobo. I lived with a French immigrant family whose life was entirely wrapped up in establishing the farm name as the only Venezuelan source of purebred Holstein milking cattle equal to the best found in the United States. The farm was situated in a mountain valley accessible only by a long, winding dirt road. Seven employees did virtually all the physical labor necessary for the existence of the dairy herd of 80 and the home.

The life of my I. F. Y. E. father in the morning included walking to the barn to check on the progress of the milking and giving work instructions. The rest of his morning would be spent sitting on the porch talking, entertaining friends or showing the prize heifers, cows and bulls to prospective buyers. Each Monday he and my 1964 Ford and drive to nearby

Caracas, the capital city, to make business arrangements.

My I. F. Y. E. mother's life started in the morning with conversations with various family members, followed by a visit to the barn to work with a few outstanding cows that needed to be kept in top show condition for the fairs held throughout the year. In the afternoon she joined the family in cultivating prospective clients, entertaining guests or just chatting.

Each day when their truck returned from delivering the milk cans to the dairy plant, it brought feed for the cows, groceries and several morning newspapers. The papers were eagerly read each day by father, mother and grandmother. Grandmother liked to sit teaching me Spanish. She also liked to watch the evening milking of the cows and to compile milk production records.

I didn't see the three children very often. They studied in private parochial schools. The two girls, 9 and 13 years, attended a school in Caracas while the son, 12 studied in an agricultural school in the neighboring city of Valencia.

The family had much social life that took place on their own porch in the form of entertaining their friends and clients. In my six-week stay we attended several get-togethers and a banquet of the STUART

The Collins View

By DICK COLLINS

Hi Sports!
This week we shall compare two TV shows that seem to have attracted a great deal of interest. Yours truly took a small poll this past week to try and find out who is more popular with the late nite TV owls—Steve Allen or Johnny Carson.

From what I learned both of these late shows have a loyal audience. We asked 35 persons what show they viewed and it came out 18 for Steve Allen and 17 for Johnny Carson. So you can see just a sample of how the audience must be split across the country.

In my own personal view point, I give the nod to Steve Allen for I think he has more on the ball. Also I believe Allen has more of wit then Carson (as, but I have no doubt that many of you reading this could argue just the other way.

But I guess both of these late nite TV heroes will be around for a long time to come. For at least the time being there will be a great deal of dial switching and no doubt a lot of late bed goers. I would like to know your opinion. Let me know.

The Hampton Playhouse is still presenting its version of the Broadway smash "My Fair Lady." If you missed it last week you still have time before the SRO sign goes up.

A quick glance at the Casino Ballroom shows that Judy Kennedy is back at the Casino singing along with the good dance music of Jimmy Mosher. A really swinging band and a real "doll" is Judy.

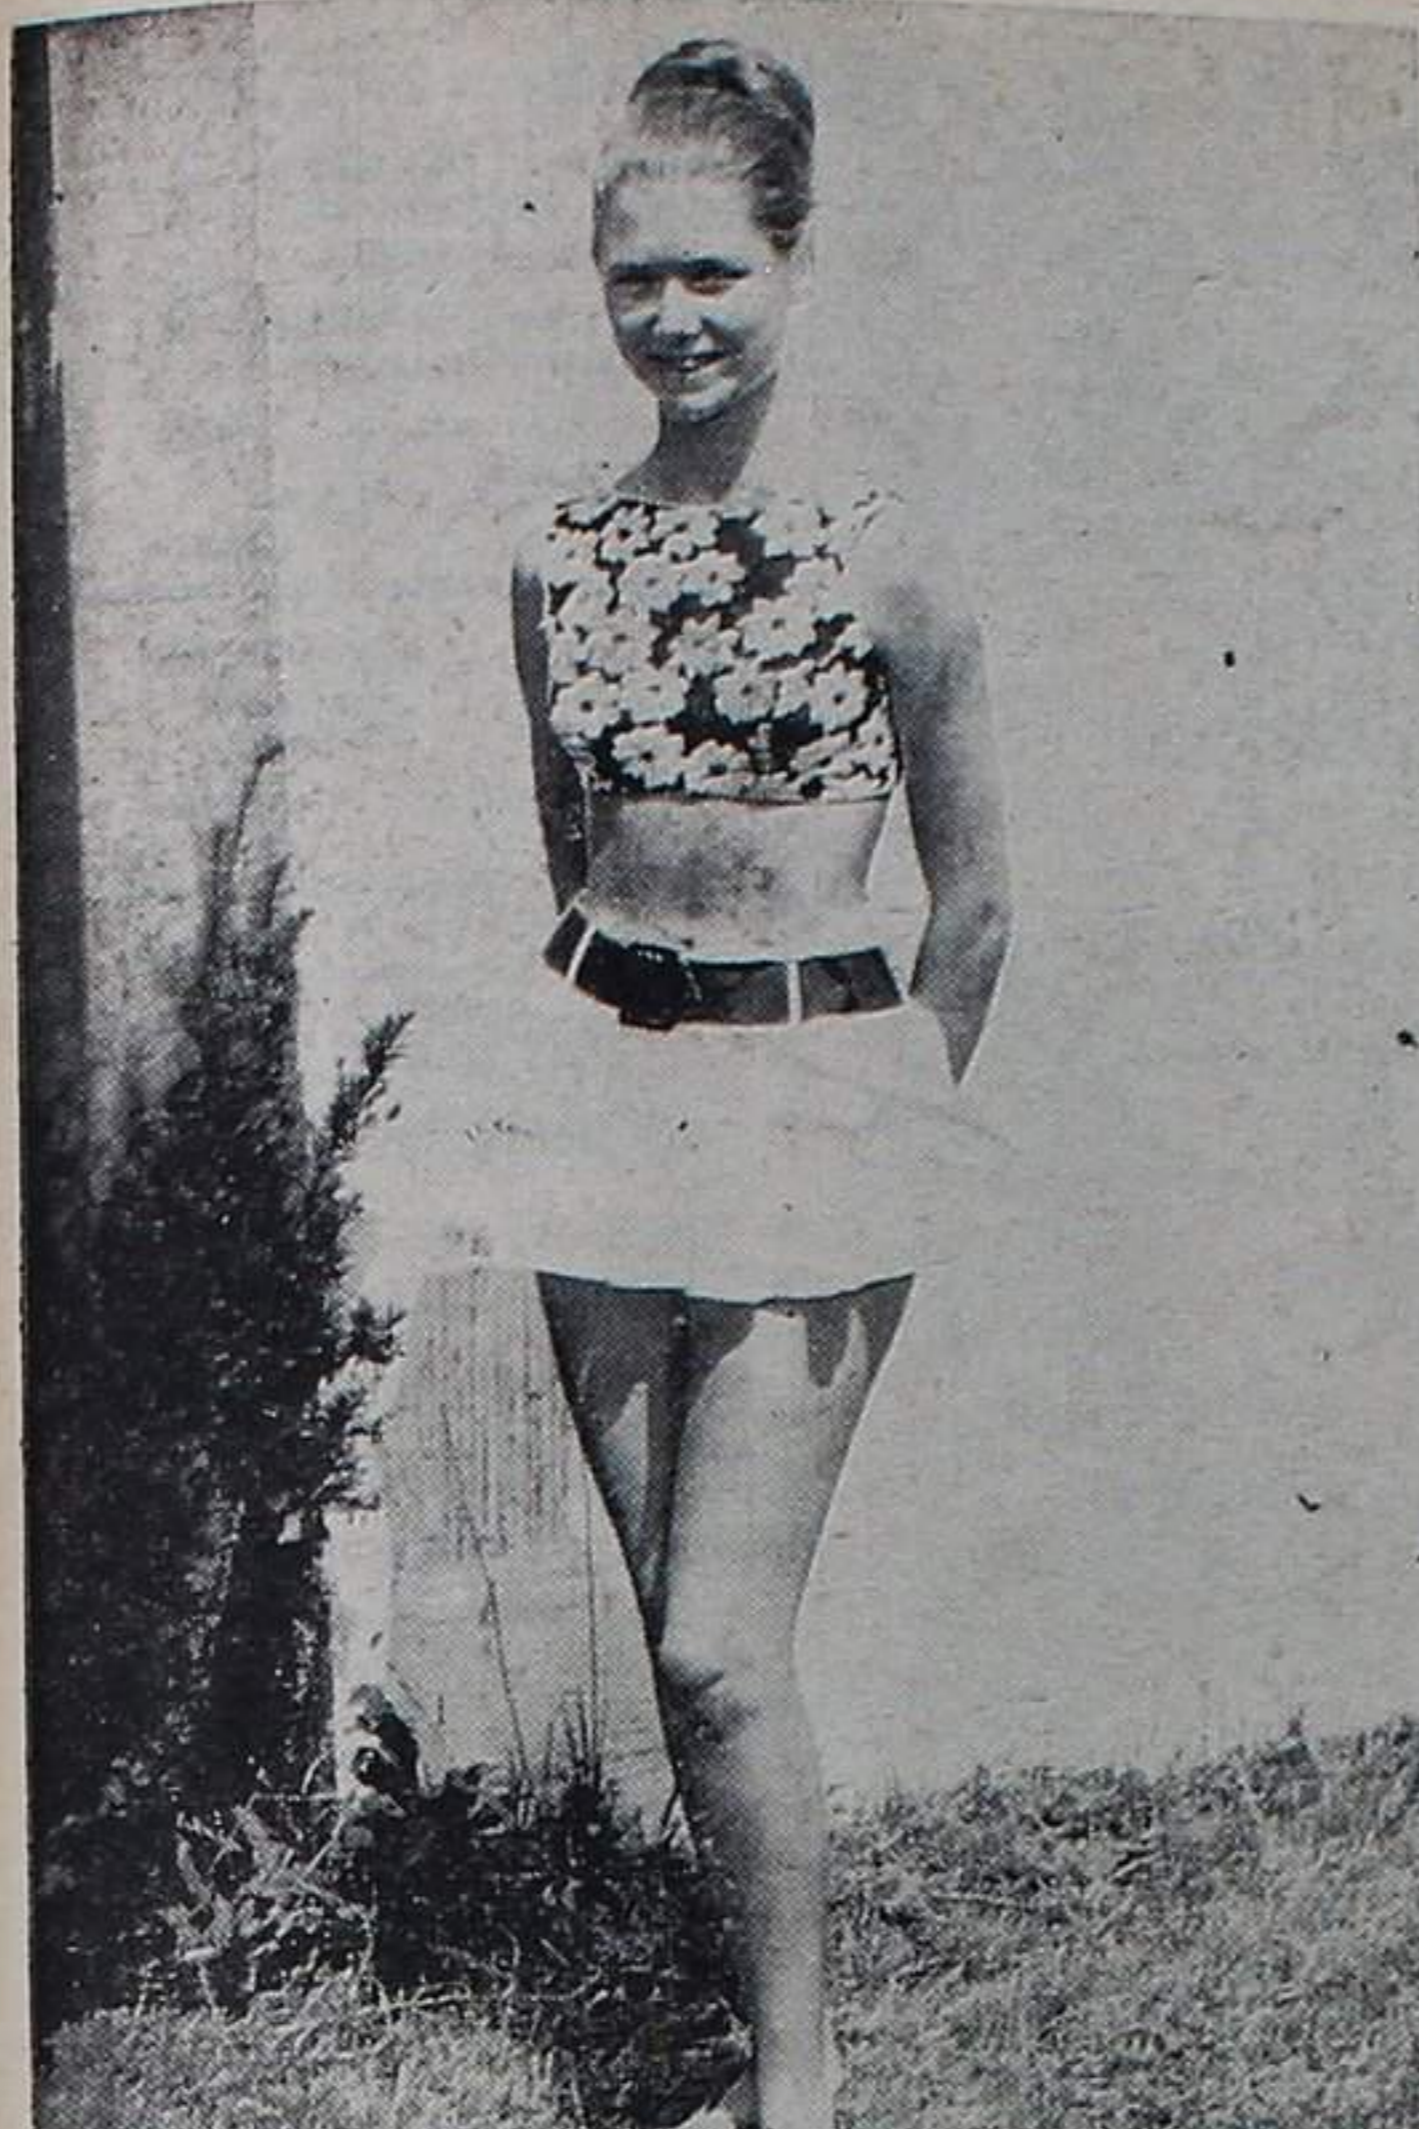

Making our weekly check of the "CIA" file, to Pat Curtin from John Riley "There I Go Again"... to Susie at the glass shop, Wal' On By." Dennis at Preston's, "How Do You Do It?" to Freddie at Fallon's Drug Store, "Handy Man," and finally to Anne at the Casino Restaurant, "Remember Me?"

In the July 15 issue of the BEACHCOMBER an article appeared under the heading of "Jail on Wheels."

The final paragraph of the article should have read, "The jail is sponsored by the Hampton Police Relief association" instead of as was originally written.

ting under the birches that edge the green and the solo soprano of a woman soaking her tired feet in the millrace.

Elliot told the throngs that Hampton Beach has a beauty contest that ranks right along with the Miss America Pageant "and we're not sure but what ours is better," he said — and a sand castle building contest unique in the United States.

"Come and visit us," he urged.

The dancers of the Marie Patent Studio, ranging in age from 8 to 17, delighted the audience with their tap-dance routines.

The girls wore polka-dotted old-fashioned bathing suits and Mark Goodnough, 11, a striped jersey suit of 1890 vintage for a down-by-the-sea number.

Their outfits and fresh enthusiasm almost made the weather seem cooler.

Later the dancers switched to glittering spangled costumes and again the day seemed a little fresher, a little less muggy.

New Hampshire, which has already let the World's Fair know about the state with snowball fights, square dancers, and singing groups, will wind up its community events at the New England pavilion in August.

Rochester will have its day on August 10, Portsmouth on August 22, and Berlin on August 26.

Hampton Playhouse Completes Renovation

When the Hampton Playhouse opened the doors of its newly renovated theater on June 27, for the gala, champagne opening of, "Irma La Douce", the first night audience applauded and admired along the new red cushion seats, the enlarged auditorium, designed for maximum visibility, the new foyer, the gas lamps along the driveway, and all the other alterations which have made the playhouse, in the words of one person, "the loveliest, summer theater that I've seen in a long while."

There were a few difficulties, however. The new balcony had not been raked quite enough. This has been fixed. Eliminating one row entirely, the management has elevated each succeeding row, assuring full view of the stage to each person in the balcony section. There were also, on that first, experimental night, some complaints about not being able to hear fully the words and songs of the actors on stage. This was a particularly disturbing criticism for actors and management alike and to rectify it, Producers Vari and Christie have announced their plans to install an extensive and complete sound system, which will, upon installation, amplify and project sounds on stage throughout the entire playhouse, without detracting in the least from the naturalness and quality of the actor's voices.

The Hampton Playhouse is now a completed and an extremely good looking summer theater. Designed for maximum comfort and pleasure, it reflects the desire of all the people at the Playhouse to say a large, "thank you" to its thousands of friends, old and new, who have made it a last-

Simpson At Dow AFB

BANGOR, Maine — Roland P. Simpson of Portsmouth, is participating in the U. S. Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) summer encampment at Dow, AFB; Me.

Fires, Building Highlight 200 Year Fremont History

Cadet Simpson, son of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Simpson of 100 Sheffield road, has been a member of the AFROTC unit at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., the last four years. He recently received his bachelors degree in metallurgical engineering at the Institute. He is vice president of his chapter of Theta Xi.

The cadet is observing and taking active part in various phases of flying and support fires to prominent buildings highlight the recent years of the Two Hundred year history of Fremont, N. H.

Flames first claimed houses owned by Ball and by Hall and Cook on May 25, 1910.

The Union Congregational Church, built in 1865 by the church Society, burned in 1920. At the same time fire swept the Spaulding and Frost mill. The church was never replaced but the mill was rebuilt in 1922.

Many of Fremont's present institutions began in the later part of the 1800's. The library association was formed in 1866 and for many years books were kept in the members homes. The Grange began on March 21, 1892, and two years later, the library was built. The town hall was built and dedicated in 1911.

Fremont was a town of many industries. One of the town's oldest houses was the shop of Andrew "Gunsmith" Brown. Chase's Store (near Pokey's) hired women to make palm leave hats to sell at the store. Nearby, Jonathan Robinson made wheels for wagons and carts.

The location of the post office has been changed at least eight times and one postmaster, Joe Sanborn, was paid a annual salary of $222.35 in 1891. Fremont was originally part of Exeter but was incorporated as a town on June 17, 1894. The original town name was Poplin. The name was changed to Fremont during the election of 1854 when John C. Fremont ran for president.

You Saw Flexalum Patio Covers in Reader's Digest — Why not enjoy them on your home?

Turn your backyard into a summer resort.

It may be just the resort you've always hunted for. (And what other resort can give you this bonus: a cooler, more beautiful, more valuable house?)

Begin with a Flexalum aluminum patio awning. At once, you've a big, shady setting for all kinds of fun. Bring out a table — and children's meals become picnics. Add a candle for al fresco dining yourselves. Set up an easel for your toddler. (Here finger-paints are no problem.) Throw a barbecue. (Here you can't be rained out.) For a really gala evening, give a dance here — string some lights and turn on the phonograph. (Flexalum awnings have no ugly nuts-and-bolts look to mar the effect over head.)

Unkeep? Forget about it! Flexalum aluminum awnings take care of themselves. Their two-coat, baked enamel finish won't chip, crack, peel or rust. And only Flexalum rigid awnings — for patios, porches, windows and doors — give you this security: the Bridgeport Brass Company 5-Year Guarantee bonded by the Continental Casualty Company.

Flexalum Aluminum Roll-ups: shade when you want it, sun when you want it.

CD Exhibits At N.H. Fairs

There will be Civil Defense exhibits at all the major fairs in the state again this summer, starting with the North Haverhill Fair July 31, August 1 and 2, and continuing with hardly a break until the season closes at the Sandwich Fair on October 12, according to an announcement by Major General

Francis B. McSwiney, State Civil Defense Director. "The Civil Defense exhibits this year will show something of three of our major programs, Public Fallout Shelter, Rural Civil Defense and Medical Self Help." The General said, "We feel that these programs will be of interest to everybody as they affect our chances of survival both in case of enemy attack and in natural disasters. The exhibits will be manned by members of the State Civil Defense staff who will answer questions about the three programs and any other Civil Defense staff projection in which people are interested. We also will have literature on hand describing the various Civil Defense activities, which may be had for the asking. "We have been gratified by the public interest shown in our exhibits at past fairs so are expanding our facilities and covering several programs rather than just one, as in the past.

Miss New England Contest August 4

Next Tuesday evening, August 4, at 8:30 p.m., the 2nd major event of the 1964 Hampton Beach recreational season will be held at the Casino Ballroom as Miss New England of 1964-65 is chosen. A Winnacunnet High school senior, Miss Frances Houlihan, twice runner-up in Miss Hampton Beach contests, is the reigning Miss New England and will relinquish her crown following a year's reign. This will be the 8th annual Miss New England contest with the present program having been an outgrowth, in 1957, of several prior contests which augmented the Miss Hampton Beach contest. At that time, weekly contests were held out-of-doors on the stage of the old bandstand and were known as the Miss Personality, Miss Glamor Girl, Miss Sunshine, and Miss Sea Nymph contests. Girls participating in the Miss Personality contest were required to wear cotton or sunback dresses. Those competing in the Miss Glamor Girl pageant wore cocktail gowns or afternoon dresses while those in the Miss Sunshine contest wore swimsuits. (Continued On Page Three)

CofC Helps To Find Lost "Parents" At Beach

Last week a 3½ year-old boy was returned to his parents after becoming lost at Hampton Beach. During the course of the summer, the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce helps to return literally hundreds of children to their parents after the two become separated at the beach. Each year police officers join with chamber officials in locating the "lost" parents as Executive Secretary "Bill" Elliot chooses to call the situation. This summer, the chamber representatives have received an added boost as the State of New Hampshire meter men have also aided in helping to return the children. Mr. Elliot has often noted that over the years all types of persons have been given an assist by the chamber. Most parents become emotionally upset when their children disappear somewhere into the vast throngs of people at the beach. Others, such as the family which Production Manager Henry Hamel and Mr. Elliot overheard last summer while on the Casino veranda received stern lectures. Mr. Elliot noted that in this instance, the couple sat calmly listening while a chamber official announced the name of a lost child over the public address system. The father turned to his wife and said something to the effect that "he's safe, let's go eat dinner." Needless to say, the couple received an ear full. Many of the children become exceedingly emotional while others are calm. Usually the children are brought to the chamber office by police officers, life guards or interested persons on the beach. The chamber takes it from there. Trying to get the names and addresses from some of the youths is difficult. But over the years, a system has been worked out whereby nearly all children have been returned to their parents or guardians. This year, some of the meter men have assisted in calming the children on busy days in order to give the chamber officials a hand. Typical of the letters received is the following addressed to the Hampton Police Department: "I wish to express my husband's and my sincere thanks for the care and attention you gave our 3½-year-old son when he became lost yesterday. If by chance you also know the boy who found him and brought him to the police station, I should appreciate your thanking him for us. "After spending the short time with you as he did yesterday, Jeff has decided that "policemen are nice", and instead of being a fireman when he grows up he thinks he'll be a policeman."

FAMILIAR SCENE at the Chamber of Commerce office throughout the summer months is shown above. Albert Belanger, Exeter, an instructor on French and English at Hampton Academy Junior High school and a meter man for the State of New Hampshire this summer contest, lost youth as he waits for his mother and dad. Each summer, chamber personnel assist in returning hundreds of youths to their parents or guardians. This year the meter department has an office over the chamber office and Officer Belanger stopped en route to the office to endeavor to bring a little cheer as he relieved chamber personnel.
