HAMPTON BEACH RULES

Here are a few guidelines

All N.H. state parks have a carry-in, carry-out policy. Keep in mind during your visit to the beach this summer. (The beach is closed from 1 a.m. to sunrise).

Parking is available at several locations. Metered sites along Hampton Beach cost 25 cents per quarter hour, the town has parking lots on Ashworth Avenue, next to the Police Department, on Island Path and on Church Street. Some parking areas close at 10 p.m. Watch for the signs. This ban is enforced by ticketing and towing. Special motorcycle parking is available at marked locations along Ocean Boulevard.

Trush pickup is once a week. Trash may not be set at the curb for pickup until after 11 p.m. the night before collection day. To find out when, call the Department of Public Works in Hampton at 926-4402. Hampton also has a voluntary recycling program for plastics, aluminum and tin food cans, newspapers and polystyrene. Bins can be obtained at the DPW if properties don't have one. Collection is the same day as trash collection, Igloos for aluminum cans are provided on the beach. Beachgoers are asked to place trash in containers. provided on the beach.

bring alcohol, vehicles or glass botfles or dogs onto the beach; play loud music from stereos or cars; skateboard; sleep in cars at night; solicit in any form, light fires or grills on the beach; use floating or swimming devices in the water (besides Styrofoam and boogie boards); bring boats too close to shore; scuba or skin dive; use metal horseshoes or darts; play dangerous ball games; bathe beyond chest deep; climb on rocks in state parks or at post 13 during high tide; and don't remove lobster traps or buoys.

Visitors are asked not to feed stray animals or leave behind animals brought along on or adopted during your trip. Beachgoers are asked to change clothing only in the bathhouses.

Surfing is allowed in certain areas of Hampton Beach that have been designed by park personnel, and in designated areas of North Beach. Group activities are permitted on the beach only when sponsored by an agency. The park manager at the Hampton Beach Seashell has more information.

FORTRESSES AND FUN

Of the many forts that have dotted the borders of the Seacoast, only five remain open to the public. Two forts are located in Maine and three are located in New Hampshire.

Name: Fort Constitution Location: On grounds of U.S. Coast Guard Station, off Route 1B in New Castle, New Hampshire.

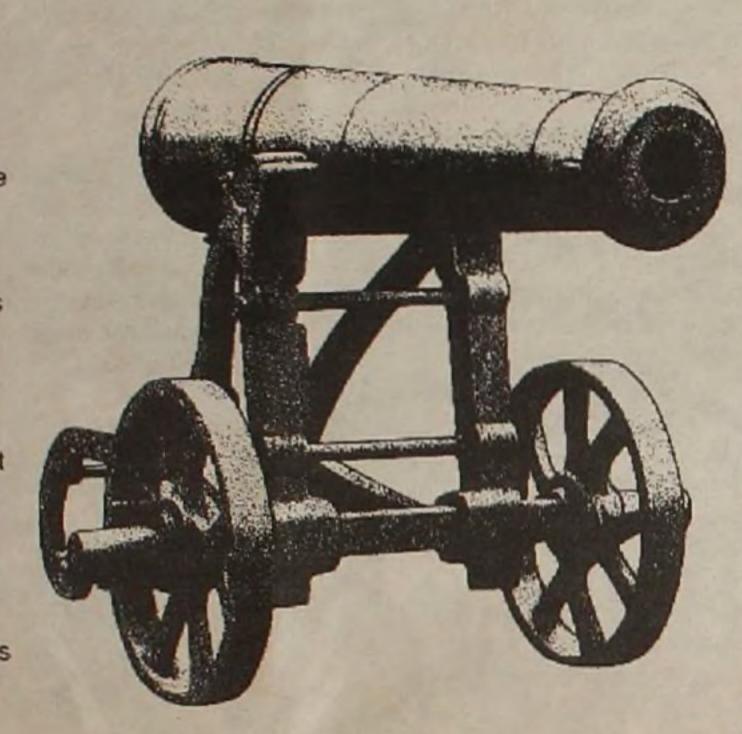

Background: Originally this was Fort William and Mary, a British stronghold overlooking Portsmouth Harbor. On Dec. 14, 1774, Seacoast colonists captured the fort in one of the first overt acts against the king and one which predated the actual American Revolution by been converted to the Seaits walls remains of the fort, which was built in the 17th century. The fort was reconstructed in 1808. Open all year, daily, 10-5 p.m. Admission is free. 436-1552

Name: Battery 204 at Fort Dearborn Location: In Odiome Point State Park, Route 1A, Odiorne Point, Rye, New Hampshire. Background: Located at Fort Dearborn, Battery 204 was constructed in the early 1940s to provide protection for Portsmouth Harbor during World War II. The Sugden House, the only summer home along Odiome Point that survived demolition during defense preparations, served as the headquarters at Fort Dearborn. The home has four months. Only the base of coast Science Center which is open 11 a.m.-5 p.m., seven

A HISTORY OF CENTRE SCHOOL

By Jeff Cooper Contributing writer

To celebrate Back to School - Daze we are going to have a lesson about the history of Centre School in Hampton. Education has been happening for 350 years in different buildings on the same site where the school is today.

Here is a true-life story as told by Anna May Cole in The Hampton Union, June 1972. It took place in a one-room Centre School some number of years ago.

The teacher was Lewis Palmer, a Bates College student spending a long winter vacation as a substitute teacher and probably not enough removed from his own childhood to avoid being challenged. Everett "Gib" Towle was a boy much larger than the others who committed some long forgotten offense. When Mr. Palmer called him to the front of the class for discipline, he refused. Since it was the close of the day young Lewis decided to handle the problem in the morning. Bright and early, Gib was in his seat looking defiant and self satisfied. He had refused to mind and gotten away with it. Mr. Palmer arrived armed with a bundle of willow sticks under his arm. He must have gotten a poor night's sleep anticipating the morning's confrontation, tossing and turning, agonizing about how to restore his insulted authority, whatever the cost. He entered the room locking the door behind him and ordering Gib to the front for his punishment. Gib remained defiant, laughing and mocking. The enraged master ran down the aisle and began whipping the boy in his seat. Gib dodged and feinted, followed by Palmer whacking and striking until the stick broke off in his hand. Taking up another he continued the chase up and down the aisles - the little girls screaming in fear and hiding their heads under their desks. Finally the boy gave in and accepted his due, begging for pardon by repeating the words Lewis Palmer dictated to him, like taking a wedding vow. Everyone expected his

Hampton Centre School

The first Centre School in Hampton holds the honor of having been the first public school in the State of New Hampshire. When, in 1647, the Massachusetts General Court passed a law requiring any town with more than 50 families to teach its children reading and writing, this forward thinking town of Hampton was the first in New Hampshire to comply. Remember that in 1647 our neighbor to the south still held claim to our great state. The first Centre School was built in Dad, John Albert Towle, to be outraged and demand Lewis be fired, but he was much too cool for that. His only com-

These brick school buildings were used until 1873 the town replaced them all with a two story wooden structure on the Centre School site.

The wooden schoolhouse at the Grammar School is still in use today, but it is now the Hamton District Court building just down the street on the corner of Academy Drive. It was moved there on skids in March of 1922 and replaced with the brick building that is today's Centre School.

You can see a commemorative plaque to the first school building in New Hampshire on the front lawn of the brick Centre School at 53 Winniwages. Eventually the cunnet Road. Those 350 years of teaching on that same site make for an impressive record, and we wish the children of Hampton happy learning and the keeping of great tradition.

SKATEBOARDING

By Kelly Morgan Contributing Writer

These days you might find your kid skateboarding after school instead of playing baseball or soccer, says Buck surfing, streetblading and Rowlee of Pioneers Board Shop in Hampton, and this may not be such a bad thing. Sure, skateboarding has suffered from a bad reputation - the punk aspect of the sport is not entirely undeserved. But lots of kids are simply out there to have a good time while it keeps them entertained and off the couch.

Complaints, anyone? Skateboarding has been living a revival of late, growing steadily in popularity alongside such once-obscure sports as snowboarding, stunt biking.

Many of these activities require hours and hours of dedication and practice, and are based on an individual's ability to perform tricks and stunts. It's not as simple as getting the ball in the goal or being first at the end of a long race. Instead, anyone who is any good has a sleeveful of tricks and carefully obscurity, but also a great deal of skill, balance and coordination. In principle, like other sports of board

For the price of a board, which can range anywhere from $100-$130 new, anyone wishing to try can soon be rolling down the streets on a new set of wheels. This makes it an even better sport for kids because with the purchase of a board they can simply go. Helmets and pads are certainly recommended, however, and in many skateparks required.

"It's just exploded with the kids," said Rowlee, explaining that skateboards make up nearly one quarter of their business, the rest being done in surfboards, snowboards, clothing and accessory sales. And, he continued, "it's not surprising to find an 11 year-old is the best in a park." Luckily for Hampton, Pioneers has one of the biggest supplies of skateboards in New Hamp shire. Short skateboards, the traditional ones that most people might imagine if asked to picture one, are the most popular with the kids. They allow for a greater range of movements and are ideal for performing tricks. Longboards are actually, well, longer, and they provide a steadier ride much like that of their surfing counterparts, also called longboards. They are more popular with older kids and surfers who wish to mimic their wave riding actions on pavement. Pioneers sells one longboard for every 20 or so regular skateboards, carrying more than 120 varieties of boards with only about 15 of them being the lengthier version. Because of the popularity of short skate-

Lucky again, Hampton has provided for the younger generations by constructing a skate park, located by the transfer station in the center of town. This is an area with ramps and means for kids to hang out and practice their sport. It also serves to release area business owners from liability risks due to accidents that might occur on their property, and skateboards are prohibited everywhere else in

Worth noting, police have the right to confiscate the boards of anyone caught riding on public property outside of the skatepark, and will also implement fines.

For anyone interested in trying the sport Pioneers is a good starting point. They are located at 62 Lafayette Rd., North Hampton, 964-7714.

With a vast supply of "decks," (the boards themselves), and a great deal of experience (owner Steve has been skateboarding for years), they can help individuals make well-informed decisions about

They will also supply advice on how to start and where Fair Play Consignments Sports, 32 Portsmouth Ave., Exeter, 772-5021 also supplies friendly advice, and should be called to see if there are any used boards in stock.

SEE YOU NEXT SUMMER!

Although the recent water temperature has been in the 70s (thanks to hurricanes), fall is at our doorstep. Pumpkins are plump, leaves are turning and one can once again see the sand of our beaches.

It has been a hot summer with more good weather than bad.

It has been a summer filled with both good times and tragedy. We lost some special landmarks this summer to a raging fire. We could have lost many more if not for the heroic efforts of many area firefighters.

We've crowned a new Miss Hampton Beach and watched blood and sweat spray across the boxing ring.

We have listened to every kind of music, watched youngsters perform their hearts out, learned about history and snails and islands.

We have discovered the mysterious and the mundane. We've watched bikinis and Speedo's, built sandcastles and run with the waves.

We've pierced and tattooed, raced and paraded. And we have eaten. And eaten. And eaten.

It is now time to go back to school, work and home. It's time to say good-bye.

We shall miss you, our summer visitor, and we shall miss the activity of the summer Seacoast. We look forward to welcoming you back, next summer.

But summer isn't the only time you can come visit us. Come for a weekend this winter. The Seacoast is beautiful wild and natural in the winter!

But whether you come for a winter walk along the beach or wait until the waves can lap your bare toes you are always welcome.

So for now, farewell and thank you. Thank you readers and advertisers...it's been great fun!
